Republican Senators Have Lengthy and Spirited Conference,

Terms of Wilson Bill Relative to Trusts Will Likely Be Continued for the Present-The Report Will Be Adopted by Usual Party Vote.

Washington, July 1.-The republican senstors held what they declare to be their last caucus on the tariff bill tonight. The meeting continued for three hours and was productive of important results, which were not reached without a display of considerable feeling. Among the points decided were as follows:

The report of an anti-trust amendment. To withdraw the original finance commit-ee provisions for a duty on tea and an ancrease of 44 cents per barrel in the tax

The greater part of the time was giver to the proposition for a provision against The discussion of this question was opened upon the basis of the report of the ju-dictary committee in opposition. The committee had held a meeting during the afternoon during which the whole question was gone over at length with other republican senators, including Messrs. Hanna and Chandler. It was decided that it would be extremely difficult to secure legislation that would be effective and that upon the whole it was impolitic and unwise to undertake it. A report was made according to the caucus and a resofution adopted authorizing the presenta-tion of an amendment providing in express terms for the continuance in effect of the terms of the Wilson bill, which makes it unlawful to form a trust in imported ar-

This report called out some vigorous protests, especially on the part of the western senators, but they were replied to with spirit. It was asserted among other things that the presentation of a new anti-trust provision would lead to a long debate which could not be afforded at the present

The success of the proposition to recede temporary duty on tea, led to quite a prolonged discussion of the amount of revenue the bill would yield. Many senators expressed the opinion that the volume would not be equal to the demand of the government. It was in response to this view that a determination was reached to pro-vide for a tax on stock and bond transac-

The details of the statement were not agreed on, but were left to the finance committee to perfect. There was decided opposition to a tax on either ordinary bank checks or mortgages. It appeared during the discussion of this branch of the subject that the committee had beet supplied today with estimates of the revenue the bill would produce, made by Mr. orthing.C. Ford, who had given the opinion that with an equal volume of imports the bill would produce during the first year of its operation more than $100,000,000 in excess of the returns under the Wilson law for the first year it was in existence. Senator Allison said, however, that these figures were misleading, as the imports could not be expected to be so large, and advised his fellow senators on this ac-count not to accept them as any indication of the possibilities of the bill. GOOD REPORT FOR THE SOUTH

LIKED LIFE AT QUARANTINE.

Port Townsend, Wash., July 1.-There was a remarkable mutiny at the Diamond Point quarantine station when the United States physician in charge ordered the States physician in charge ordered the release of twenty-nine members of the crew of the ship Braemer, which recently arrived from Shanghal with symptoms of smallpox aboard. The men declined to leave and actually endeavored to persuade the doctor that one of their number was developing symptoms of small pox. When informed that they were discharged and would not be longer paid wages at the quarantine station, they decided to join their ship at Tacoma. Hanna's plan of campaign in Chio this

By colonization and by colonization alone have the republicans any chance to capture the state. Hanna understands the desperate character of the situation that confronts him in his natural desire to keep a grip on the senatorship. He has looked carefully over the field through the eyes of capable and trusted lieutenants and he sees that if the election were to be held today or tomorrow or next week the democrats would sweep everything before them. He sees that of the men who have a right to vote in Ohio, the majority is likely to be against him, no matter what influences he has at his command. In that contingency there is but one thing to do-he must have other voters whom he can conrol, 50,000 of them or more.

Ohio's Prospective Prosperity. Money can bring these men to Ohio, but there must be some apparent excuse for their coming. Hanna does not underestimate the shrewdness of his opponents and he must find some reason, some excuse. "Prosperity" is to furnish that excuse. Ohio is to be made to believe that the real thing has struck the Buckeye state, and to that end the idle furnaces are to be started up, the factories are to once more set the wheels of their idle engines in motion and the republican newspapers are to herald these evidences of prosperity in great headlines.

"Increased forces" are to be noted all along the line. That phrase is relied on to cover up the sins against the election laws. "Increased forces" will mean in reality the importation of thousands of aliens and their colonization in the close counties of the state, where their illegally cast votes can carry, through the republican candidates for the legislature.

What Hanna Counts On. Mark Hanna knows the power of money and there is no practical limit to the quantity he is going to use in this campaign He has a lot himself, he has a surplus in the coffers of the national committee which he will use, he can fry still more out o the men who are being cared for in the tarbill. It is only a question of how to use it so as to produce the, to him, best results. He counts on his ability to purchase many of those who are talking revolt; he be lieves his men who are in the middle-of-the a ticket and create some sort of dissension in the silver forces, no matter whom the democrats nominate: he thinks that thou ands of dollars expended in temporarily viving some of the dead manufacturing in-stitutions will fool some thousands of work-ingmen whose children are crying for the bread which prosperity was to have bought; but beyond all this, he realizes that more votes are necessary and he is going to devote a big part of his campaign funds to the importation of those votes

Has Been Worked Successfully. It is an old game with the republicans They have worked it time and again, and in its use this year lies the chief danger to democracy. That it is to be resorted to there is not a bit of question. I know it, for I have it very direct that at a conference held after the Toledo convention the Hanna leaders determined upon this colonization as the chief corner stone of the republican plan of campaign. Hanna and Dick were there, Grosvenor's whiskers beamed down on the seene, Johnny Maltoy and George Cox and other carefully selected leaders were there, but no man tainted with Forakerism or Kurtzism or Bush

GEORGIA LAWYERS ASK FOR REFORMS

Small Minority Is Satisfied with the Present Situation,

CHANGES WILL BE DEMANDED

Chief Justice Simmons Leads the Few Who Want No Departure.

HAL LEWIS PAVES WAY TO DEBATE

He Reads Magnificent Paper on "Is Lynch Law Due to Defects in Our Criminal Law," Which Will Be Generally Discussed Today.

Warm Springs, Ga., July 1 .- (Special Staff Correspondence.)-The lawyers and judges and lawmakers of the state who are temporarily quartered here have taken up the proposed reform in the criminal law of Georgia and there is every reason to believe that when the Georgia Bar Association adjourns it will have fathered some definite, positive and potent action on the line pointed out by The Constitution.

Just what this action will be it is im possible to forecast, because the lawyers the judges and the lawmakers hold radically different views on the subject, and it may be no easy matter to bring them together. But the committee hereafter to be appointed will be given some sort of a reform measure to be laid before the next legislature, and no one doubts that it will be speedily enacted into law.

Nearly everybody believes that reform is needed and it is as to the remedy and not as to the existence of the disease that the delegates differ. There is a small minority, however, which asserts that the present law is all right, and it is likely that they will be heard from when Judge Dorsey's committee report is presented tomorrow.

The leader of this minority is Chief Justice Simmons. He is not a leader in any aggressive sense, but he does not believe that the fault of which so many people complain lies with the law. 'I think that our present statutes are all right," he said this afternoon to a little group of judicial dignitaries on the porch of the convention hall, "and I shall oppose any such change as is suggested in the present rabid attack. Our courts operate quickly and effectively and the machinery of the law works as smoothly in Georgia as it does in any other state in the union-Will Parade with Arms at the Unveil- a good deal more smoothly than in some. rhaps, too, much advantage is accused, but that is ancient law and not Georgian. I feel that we are all too free to criticise our courts." Simmons Leads Minority. Judge Simmons's view is held by a few others, but the large majority do not agree with him in saying that changes in the law would not facilitate the business of the courts, and that such an accomplishment would put a stop to lynch law and other outbursts of mob violence.

Judge Dorsey, whose committee report is awaited with much interest, has not yet arrived, but Attorney General Terrell, a member of the committee and one who ontributed his suggestions of Judge Dorsey throughout their mutual investigations, has attended every session of the ssociation up to date. Tonight I asked his opinion on the proposed reform, and he said: "I have given some consideration to this question, and have about reached the conclusion that the most practical and satisfactory solution would be the establishment of separate criminal courts. could be put into operation with very lift any additional cost. For instance, number of superior court circuits in the state should be reduced to one-half the present number, and each circuit given a judge for each civil division, and a judge for each criminal division. In this way the best interests of the community involved in litigation would not be interfered with by reason of criminal trials, and the perpetrators of crime could be given a speedy trial. Whilst it might be necessary to have fixed times for the criminal courts, the law might provide for the convening of the courts at such times, as the judge might think necessary for disposing of the crimi-

"As a further reform in the matter of criminal procedure it would be well to so change the law as to make the ruling of the judge of the superior courtroom upon all motions to continue final, and not reviewable in the supreme court. The law at present provides that all motions to continue shall be addressed to the discre-tion of the trial judge, but the construction placed upon this law is such that most all questions of continuance are reviewable in the supreme court, and it is practically impossible to place in the record for the supreme court a perfect photograph of the motion and the circumstances connect-ed with it at the time the trial judge passes upon it. The only objection that could be urged to this plan is that it places too much power in the trial judge. But it is no more power than the trial judges exercised before the organization of the supreme court. The judge of the suerlor court would never refuse to continue the case when the facts demanded it."

Mr. Terrell's suggestion is the most unique yet advanced, and it may be the one which the committee will recommend to the convention.

Another popular one comes from Thomas B. Felder, who has talked it up briskly among the delegates and secured a strong support. Mr. Felder says:

"In my judgment the criminal law can be reformed by the judges, to a considerable extent, in its administration. Courts of last resort should try cases on their substantial merits, instead of on is likely to go to the senate tomorrow. Mr. Rockhill's appointment will not be a party one in any sense, but will be besed entirely upon his experience as a diplomat and his excellent work in the department of state. He entered the dip-lomatic service as far back as 1884, being average of 75 cents a day, and the mines appointed from Maryland to be second secretary of legation at Pekin. In 1886 and 1897 he acted as charge d'affairs at Seoul, the Korean capital. In 1888 he resigned with a long leave of absence, which he devoted to an exploration of Thibet, then an almost unknown country. One result of this journey was a most interesting contribution to the scientific literature of travel. In 1893 Mr. Rockhill who had then arrived in the United States, was appointed chief clerk in the department of state, a post he relinguished in the following year to be come third assistant secretary of state.

At the personal request of Mr. Cleveland Mr. Rockhill, in 1896, relinquished this place, which from custom had come to be regarded as non-political and safe from the vicissitudes of changes in the administration, to accept the place of assistant sec retary of state, vacated by the appoint-ment of Mr. Uhl as ambassador to Ger-many. He continued to hold the place under the present administration until the appointment of Judge Day, and re-mained in the department for some time after the accession of the latter to close up the Cuban correspondence of the pre

It went before the court in the form of a damage suit brought by James Caldwell against the county to recover damages in the riot at the Brown Hoisting and Conveying Machinery Company's strike. The court held that a law making counties and municipalities liable for damages in such cases is unconstitutional. Mr. Teller moved an amendment including in the free list "rough lumber manufactured of white pine."

The sanator criticised the course of the committee in placing white pine on the dutiable list, thus encouraging the destruction of pine, when it was known the supply would not last eight years.

Mr. Teller said he was for protection, but he would not carry it to extremes compelling every man building a home or using a stick of pine to pay tribute to the few owners of pine. This was a republican doctrine, which was opposed to the advance of prices on the necessities of life. Mr. Teller declared that the duty on pine was one of the many absolutely indefensible features of this bill.

This reopened a discussion on the duty on white pine, which was vigorously contested in the earlier and of the bill.

Democrats All Right Now. It is too early to say how their plans are going to work. That a majority of the le-gal residents of Ohio-and a good majority -are against Hanna and will vote against him, I believe to be an undoubted fact. The men who know best about Ohio politics are all agreed that the democrats have the best of reasons for feeling confi-dent of success and that the majority is with them as it stands today. But as to November-that is another question en

That the republicans will succeed in some neasure in their efforts at colonization there is no reason to doubt. They have been successful in the past despite the most stringent efforts of democrats to pre vent it, and they will succeed again. There is a large purchasable element in Ohio and Hanna is in a position to outbid everyty" ruse will still fool some people. But where Hanna will fall down will be in the failure of the bulldozing which he found so efficacious in Ohio last year. Coercion and Bulldozing.

Hanna is a bull dozer in politics. methods are those of a man with a club. He carried Ohio last fall through a gigan tic system of coercion and bulldozing. The thumbscrews were put on everybody. The banks put them on the merchants; the big merchants on the little fellows; the little fellows on those who owed them. The railroads put them on their employees with notorious success all along the line. The manufacturers, big and little, swallowed the McKinley bait hook and all, and told the men who worked for them that if Bryan were elected there would be no hand, McKinley won— You all remember the beauty of that side of the picture. Well, Hanna expects to do it again. He believes absolutely in the power of wealth and in the efficiency of the coercion methods. What was done with such notable success once he believes car done and will be done again.

work and no wages; but if, on the other

It Worked Once; but -Can it be done again-will it be done

There is a vast lot of evidence here to show that it cannot and will not. Some o the men who were fooled last year may be fooled again, but thousands of them will not be. Some of those who, from fear of losing their positions, listened to the in-structions of their employers last year and voted for McKinley, may obey similar in-structions this year and vote for Hanna, but tens of thousands of them will not. In every county, in every town, in every ward and in every precinct of Ohio there are these people—men who bitterly resent their treatment then and who are going to vote the democratic ticket this year. Hanna laughs at this. He believes it will be different when the man at the busines end of the thumbscrews begin getting in their work. He counts these votes as safe. But he is counting without his host These are the people who are going to nul-lify the effect of his deep-laid colonization schemes. The outlook now is that can't import enough votes to offset the de fection of the one

Just one illustration. A man who works in the Panhandle railroad offices tells me of the failure among the railroad men. "The other day," said he, "they laid off 1,200 men on this division of the Pennsylvania road. Fully one thousand of them voted for McKinley last year under prosperity promises and coercion. Not fifty of tha thousand will vote the republican ticket

And it is that way all over the state. If the election were held tomorrow it would be no petty democratic victory-it would be no petty democratic victory—is would be a landslide such as would make the nominees for governor a national fig-ure. It would be an event which would stand out in the political history of a state whose political history already contains some highly interesting and highly structive chapters.

Washington, July 1.-Mr. Settle, democrat, of Kertucky, after the journal had been read in the house today, raised a question to the truth of the journal of Monment to correct the journal so as to make it show that the "speaker in pursuance of the rule heretofore adopted declared the house adjourned until Thursday." Upon this amendment he got the floor and proceeded with an extended speech on the general question of the power of the house to adjourn over three days at a time. He averred that he offered the amendment in a non-technical spirit, but that the journal might merely relate the truth. When Mr. Settle referred to the municipal elections at "Chicago, Cincinnati, Columbus and Canton" as an indication of public disapproval of the house's fraction as being a forerunner of that November day in 1900 which is to prove the Armagendon, Waterloo of the republican party, the speaker again rapped nim to order and Mr. Balley and Mr. Dingley crossed swords over the question as to whether the remarks were in order. Mr. Dingley claimed that the remarks were wide of the motion and Mr. Balley that it was always proper to speak of public opinion.

"We have always had respect for public opinion," said the latter, "and we think it

Mr. Knowles, republican, of South Dakota, then rose to a question of personal privilege and sent to the clerk's desk and had read an Associated Press dispatch, dated Lewiston, Me., in which Professor L. C. Bateman charged on the alleged authority of Mr. Knowles that the middle of the load populists had accepted $1,500 from the proceeds of Bryan's book with the understanding that this should be done to further fusion in 1900.

Mr. Knowles denounced Mr. Bateman's statement as a falsehood without a shadow of foundation. Mr. Bailey objected to the bringing in of private grievances into the house. He said that the gentleman might "hire a hall" if he desired to make personal explanations.

Mr. Knowles insisted, however, that he had a right to denounce a statement which was as false as hell," and the speaker allowed him to proceed. Mr. Knowles read letters in vindication of himself.

That law required him to relinquish practice he had been doing with employees of cotton mills under a contract. City Attorney's Opinion.

"Atlanta, Ga., July 1, 1897.—Hon. A. B. Connolly, Chief of Police. Dear Sir: Some members of the police force and several other interested parties have inquired of me whether the saloons have to close next Monday, the 5th of July, the 4th of July falling this year on Sunday.

"I write therefore and suggest that they ought to be closed. The ordinance, section 903, code of 1891, closes them on July 4th, and the state code, section 3693, code of 1895, makes the 5th—Monday—a public hollday when the 4th falls on Sunday. Besides the reason of the case applies. Give parties therested timely notice. Yours very truly,

Chief Connolly says he will carry out the recommendation of the city attorney. The commendation of the city attorney and the saloons in the city will not be allowed to keep open next Monday.

Of course many of the liquor dealers think titls will work a hardship on them. While discussing the matter yesterday one of the saloon keepers said:

A Protest from Dealers.

A Protest from Dealers.

"I don't wish to appear in the attitude of a kicker, but I really think that a misconstruction has been placed on the law. We are only prohibited from keeping open on the 4th of July, and merely because the state code makes Monday a legal holiday it does not follow that the city ordinance ought to be stretched to meet a special occasion. We will have to close two days next week, and we are not getting rich as it is. Sales are slow and two days closed in one week means a great loss to us."

One or two dealers are speaking of keeping open anyway to make a test case of it, but as this would give much trouble and expense it will probably not be done. and expense it will probably not be done.
So on the 5th of July this year the pink lemonade will hold full sway around the union depot and the soda founts will do a rushing business, as only the cold and non intoxicating will be sold.

OAKLEY DERBY BRAWS A LARGE CROWD

Other Races.

Dr. Catlett Led When First the Run ners Went Past the Grand Stand.

Cincinnati. July 1.-Ornament is a triple derby winner. He won that distinction today in the Oakley derby after one of the most exciting struggles ever seen or the local track.

Tillo, the great three-year-old from Tur ney Bros.' string, forced the mighty son of imp. Order to a head in the big event of today and in one more jump the race would have resulted in Tillo's favor. Over 10,000 people witnessed the running of the derby and a resounding cheer went up when the judges hung up Ornament's num ber as the winner of the hardest struggle the gallant racer ever put up. The track was in perfect shape and the race was a pretty contest throughout. At the drop of the flag Ornament was the first to show with the others in a close bunch. As the field passed the grand stand Dr. Catlett was a nose in front of Boanerges. Going the next quarter of a mile Dr. Catlett increased his lead to two lengths, but gave up at the six-furlong pole in favor of Boanerges. As the bunch turned on the back stretch bound for home, Ornament was seen to move up and in the stretch he was one length in front. Then the real race was on.

Tillo came from fourth place and Wiliams made a desperate effort to overtake the leader, but Tillo was seen to falter under him, and Clay n worked with whip and spur on Ornament to keep his mount in front.

Suddenly Tillo regained his speed and was again after the leader and came gamely every jump, but could not head the great Ornament, who by a fierce drive managed to hold on enough to win by a short lead from Tillo, who beat Freischman six lengths.

NEW YORK'S MURDER MYSTERY MUDDLE

Mrs. Mack, Now Under Arrest, May The Democratic Marshal Gives Way to Twenty-Five Thousand British Soldiers Engene Anderson May Die from the The Case To Be Tried in Talbotten on Prove Innocent.

THE INSPECTOR IS DOUBTFUL

More Positive Identification of the Butchered Man.

Police Matrons Assert That Her Body Bore Evidences of Struggle-Mystifying Telegram Appears.

New York, July 1.-Mrs. Augusta Nack, under arrest in connection with the murder of the man supposed to be William Guldensuppe, spent the night as a prisoner at the police headquarters. She still insists that Guldensuppe has not been murdered and that he will turn up alive before long.

Mrs. Nack slept well all night. She insisted that she saw Guldensuppe on Saturday afternoon, two hours after the first portion of the body was found floating in the East River at the foot of Eleventh street. The detectives are still continuing their investigation of the matter and are making vigorous search for the man that supplanted Guldensuppe in Mrs. Nack's affections There is considerable skepticism among the pelice as to the murdered man being Gulder suppe, notwithstanding the positive identification of the deformed finger by one of the missing man's friends.

Dr. Cosby, four attendants from the bathhouse and an unknown man called at the morgue today and positively identified the legs found yesterday as those of Gulden-

Every effort is being made to extort admission from Mrs. Nack that she had knowledge of the murder of Guldensuppe, She was subjected to a physical examina-tion by police station matrons before noon, after which it was asserted that her person showed marks that indicated that within a few days she had been engaged in a hard struggle.

During the examination Mrs. Nack is said to have been most hysterical and to have Learly broken down several times.

Mrs. Nack was arraigned before a police magistrate by a cordon of central office mer and her lawyer. She was visibly nervous, clutched her hands, and her face was remarkably white. She listened with eager attention to all the proceedings. Her at-There was no proof that she had commit ted a crime

The magistrate decided to continue the preliminary hearing from day to day un-til the matter is settled.

A formal complaint will be made when she is again arraigned tomorrow afternoon.

May Not Be Mrs. Nack. O'Brien, of the chief detective bureau, said tonight that he did not care to speak authoritatively when asked if the body was that of Guldensuppe, but admitted that to be the conclusion he had drawn from the evidence at hand. positively declined to answer the questions as to whether the murder wa committed in Mrs. Nack's apartments. When the woman is arraigned tomorrow O'Brien says he will have all the witnesses present, including Mrs. Riger, the Long Island City shopkeeper, who has made a statement to the effect that she sold to a woman whom she substantially identifies as Mrs. Nack, the piece of olicioth from around several parts of the body wher which were cut the parts that appeared

Inspector O'Brien expressed some doub as to whether Mrs. Riger will say her im pressions are strong enough to swear to the identification in court. If she fails to do so, material links in the evidence against the prisoner will have been lost. O'Brien said he caught the prisoner in nany contradictions in the course of his aterview with her, while on the other hand he has been able to corroborate some of her assertions. He said he has found the original of the telegram which Mrs. Nack said Guldensuppe had sent to her on Saturday afternoon asking her to go to the baths and tell the superintendent to put another man in his place there temporarily. The acting inspector said that this message was written in German and was signed by the words, "William Guidensuppe," but he declined to disclose its exact language.

If this telegram was genuine and was in reality sent by Guidensuppe, it is sufficient proof that Guidensuppe was alive after the dismembered corpse was found on Satorday afternoon in the East river, for it was some time after that.

In the woman's apartments today the police found a piece of oilcloth which was of the same material with which the parts of the corpse were wrapped. This oilcloth she said is used frequently in cases calling for the attendance of a midwife.

It was said that no blood spots in any It was said that no blood spots in any of the premises were found, and no evidences of a struggle were anywhere about. The only supposed blood spots thus far revealed. O'Brien declared, were on the barrel of a revolver found in the woman's sitting room. Both Coroner Tuthill and his physician, O'Hanlon, averred that the stains on that weapon seemed to be blood spots. They were in doubt as to whether they saw a butcher knife also spotted. A friend of Mrs. Nack's young daughter, 'Amy, the latter being the child who staid with Mrs. Nack last Saturday night, were at the police headquarters last night, and police headquarters last night and ted with Mr. O'Brien, but the head detective bureau declined to state what he learned from them.

MURDER OF BRANDA SOLVED

BENNET DAVIS IS THOUGHT TO HAVE KILLED HIM,

Wife and Daughter Testify That He Admitted That He Had Done Murder.

Savannah, Ga., July 1.—(Special.)—It is now charged that Bennet Davis is the man who killed W. B. Branda, and buried his body in a gopher hole at Dales mill.

Davis disappeared the same day as Branda, and in fact he was suspected of the crime at the time the body of Branda was found.

To add to the rumors then circulating connecting Davis with the crime. Davis's wife and daughter have since testified under oath against him, charging that Branda caught Davis in the commission of a crime, Davis's own fifteen-year-old daughter being the victim.

It is said the actions of the man have been known since last October and Davis's wife threatened several times to report him, but he told her he would kill her if she did.

but he told her he would kill her if she did.

Davis's wife finally told him that Branda was going to report him. This was shortly before the killing. On the evening of June 24th, Davis sent his wife and daughter out in the field to work and this is the time at which he made way with Branda. He went back to the field after the body had been buried and told his wife and daughter what he had done, telling them at the same time that if they informed on him he would kill them. He then disappeared. There have been several statements to the effect that the county will not be put to the expense of a trial if he is caught.

The books were all found to be in perfect condition, and beautifully kept. Mr. James T. Dunlap, who has had charge of the books, had every account arranged nicely and correctly, and the new marshal was delighted with the excellent manner in which he found that the office had been run. He said that he hardly thought it could be improved upon. Mr. Dunlap was very active in helping the newcomers to get acquainted with the business, and they found no trouble in getting the run of things.

During the four years Mr. Dunlap has had charge of the marshal's office there has not been a hitch. He has kept the affairs of the office in perfect shape, and at no time has there been any trouble. He has won a fine record for a clean, economical administration of the office, and has given the best of satisfaction to every one, even his political enemies. The government officials have always been ready to compliment Mr. Dunlap on his work, and they are now unstinted in their praise, and say that he has made one of the best officers who ever served the government here. The government has had less trouble with Mr. Dunlap's deputies than with any other in the entire country. He associated with him men who were honest, fearless and loyal to their duty. He had but about one-third of the number of officers who have formerly served, and notwithstanding this drawback his work has shown up equal to the best. Judge Newman has always been well pleased with Mr. Dunlap, and is sorry to have him vacate the office.

Mr. Dunlap's deputies have won many friends during their stay in office. Mr. Lew Hutchinson, who has been associated with him in the office for some time, is a young attorney of bright future, who has done good service while in the office. Mr. James Dunlap, who has served as chief deputy, has proven himself to be an able and capable officer. He is a graduate of the Georgia university, and is well fitted for the place. He will remain in Atlanta and prepare for the law.

Mr. Sam C. Dunlan will go back to his home in Gainesville for the present. He is receiver for the Gainesville, Jefferson and Southern railway, and his duties in that office will occupy him until the receivership is wound up or dismissed. DR. RYDER'S SISTER MAKES STATEMENT the 19th of July.

HOW THE FAMILY VIEWS IT Believe He Was Totally Irresponsible for the Act.

It Is Claimed That He Committed the Act Without Knowing It and Is Not To Be Held for It.

The trial of Dr. W. F. Rider for the assassination of Miss Sallie Emma Owen will take place in Talbotton on July 19th.

The tragedy was enacted on Easter Sunday a year ago, and Dr. Ryder was tried and gound guilty of murder. He was afterwards granted another trial on the plea that important witnesses for the defense were unavoidably absent from the trial.

The approaching trial will be a most ineresting one, as the case has become celebrated in the criminal records of the state. The families of both Dr. Ryder and his infortunate victim are among the best people in the state, and the developments in the case have been watched with unusual interest.

The Constitution is in receipt of the folowing communication from a sister of Dr Ryder, Mrs. Walter T. McArthur, of Mc Arthur, Ga. As will be seen, she presents his side of the case from the standpoint of a member of the family, and her statement is an interesting contribution to the argument of the defense, Mrs. McArthur writes:

technicalities. A new trial should never be granted on a technicality and when the verdict is demanded by the evidence."

Felder Feels Followers. A great many people think the way M Felder does. Hal Lewis, who is here to take part in the debate tomorrow, said to me this morning:

"The entire law on the subject of the prisoner's statement in criminal trials ought to be repealed, and in 'leu thereof the prisoner ought to be allowed-not compelled but allowed—at his option to become a witness in his own favor, and upon his electing to go on the stand as a witness the pris oner ought to be subject to cross-exami nation like any other witness, or like any other party testifying in his own favor in a Civil cause.

"Our law is too technical and has been carried too far on the subject of incriminating evidence. Any evidence obtained from tracks, clothing, personal marks or peculiarities, papers, weapons or other things found on his person or otherwise, even by compulsions extensions and the control of t even by compulsory examination made in good faith by the arresting officer of per-son having the prisoner in custody, or ob-tained under order and direction of the court, should, upon principles of common sense, reason and justice, he allowed to go to the pury. Such evidence to be weighed and considered for all it is worth under all the facts and circumstances of the case."

A score of other well-known lawyers could be quoted, but these interviews are sufficient to show that the Georgia Bar Association fully indorses the position taken by The Constitution. The question is one which overshadows all others at this convention and one which is likely to make the fourteenth session of the Georgia Bar Association the most notable in its history. Not only is the subject the most important that could come up for consideration, but there has seldom been a time when so favorable an opportunity offered for its discussion.

The association embraces in its membership the best brains in Georgia, but it is not always possible to bring so many members together as are here now.

Looking over the faces in the big audiorium today one felt that not only every section of the state but every state interest was represented. There were present the supreme court judges, superior court judges, members of the state administration, senators, representatives in the legis-lature, solicitors, county officers, two con-gressmen, four candidates for governor, a score of former judges and no end of plain lawyers who some day will be all of these things.

Judge Falligant, who knows everybody and everything, told me that it was as fine a gathering of Georgia manhood as he had seen for a long time.

Work Was Technical.

Today's sessions were of a technical sort and need not be very elaborately reported for lay readers. In calling the convention to order President Henry R. Goetchius, of Columbus, delivered a very interesting ad-dress on law and litigation in Georgia-during the reconstruction period. He cited

ods of those troublous times and his de-scriptions of the thousand and one law-suits brought for the recovery of value given for confederate notes were charmingly original and somewhat out of the beaten road inal and somewhat out of the beaten ro

The treasurer's report was received with apparent satisfaction and the executive committee told how the association was steadily growing in size and usefulness. Then Supreme Justice Simeon E. Baldwin, of Connecticut, former president of the American Bar Association, delivered his Iltonian law school, and his sentiments did not suit the majority of his hearers, al-though he got on very well with them. He is a hard-headed federalist of the old type, and his review of the growing power and individual authority of the United States was accompanied by favorable comments of his own. But the judge is a very popular man personally and he is having a good deal of fun with the Georgia judiciary—in a strictly judicial way.

At the afternoon session Judge Peabody, of Columbus, read a paper by Former Supreme Justice Logan E. Bleckley, on "Judges as Factors in Trial of Facts." In his able document, which was listened to with careful attention by a large audience, Judge Bleckley argued that the bench should be permitted to express opinions to the jury on the evidence presented. He held that judges knew more than juries in some ways, and that the state ought not to be deprived of such knowledge, as is now the case. He said, also, that reform in the criminal law, which was so widely favored at the present time, could be largely accomplished in this way.

Hawaii Is Discussed. The Hawaiian question came up very agreeably, but somewhat unexpected, in an address by Charles J. Swift, of the San Francisco bar, formerly of Columbus, Ga. Mr. Swift held that there were both natural and legal reasons why the United States should annex Hawail, and he presented his facts most entertainingly. If a vote had been taken on the subject when he concluded the result would have been about 300 to nothing in favor of annexa tion. The subject was informally discussed and gave opportunity to several of the lawyers and judges to work off stories which they had brought to the convention and which almost any subject would have reminded them of.

the question, "Is Lynch Law Due to Defects in Our Criminal Law" came up, and the opening paper was read just before adjournment by Hal Lewis. Inasmuch as this

COL. JONES WAS VINDICATED.

Columbia, S. C., July 1.—(Special.)—The special committee of the board of control, which has been investigating the charges made against Chairman Jones by L. J. Williams, submitted its report to the board today.

As indicated in The Constitution this morning, it proved to be a vindical Colonel Jones in every particular.

The answer made by the chairman seems to have been perfectly satisfactory, as in some instances his language was incorporated by the committee in making the report.

This ends the matter to the satisfaction of the board and the public, as it never was considered that there was anything in the charges.

The site selected for the building is the corner of Cherry and Fcurth streets, where the up-town office of the S. R. Jaques & Tinsley Company is now located, the new building to extend within forty feet of the alley a distance of 210 feet on the Fourth street side. The new building will be four or five stories high, the cellar to be used for bar, billiard and barber shop purposes and stores. Provision will also be made for the chamber of commerce and the commercial club.

McKinley and the Mills. The dispatch in yesterday's Constitution announcing the shutting down of the iron and steel mills of Ohio reads like the irony of fate in view of the fact that the tariff bill, which was to raise their wages, will soon reach its passage. It is but ten months ago that Presiential Candidate McKinley stood upon his front porch in Canton, O., receiving delegations of workingmen, to all of whom he delivered the same pretty little speech about the opening of the mills rather than the mints, and the rise which would take place in wages when the republican candidate should take his place in the white house. Chief among these workingmen were strong delegations from the Almalgamated Associations of Iron Workers. They cheered as they listened to the platitudes which Mr. McKinley can utter so well, and many of them went home and aided in the triumph of republicanism, which was to accomplish all the great work which been so lucidly pictured by Mr. McKinley.

But a few short months have passed Mr. McKinley is in the house. The gold standard has had all the effect of full official recognition. A protective tariff bill is soon to be signed; but what a change there is to be seen from the promised situation! Every iron mill in the United States whose age scales are under the jurisdiction of the Amalgamated Association of Iron. Steel and Tin workers is ordered to shut down, and 25,000 skilled workmen are thrown into idleness, meaning fully 150, 000 people left without the means of support; and what is worse, the promise is men and manufacturers who find a dead market, is to be long and protracted, carrying destitution to an alarming ex-

Nor is this all. The flint glass workmen have been called upon for a reduction which is unparalleled in order to the shrinkage in market prices, and 15,000 more skilled workmen, repreenting about 70,000 mouths, are added to the amalgamated iron workers. The coal miners and other labor organizations which have been forced into drastic measures, will swell the list of idle workmen to 200,000 men in all, representing 1,000,000 human beings who can be the witnesses during the coming summer of Mr. McKinley's unfulfilled

It is easy for some folks to talk about that quality called confidence, urging their fellows to talk up bravely that confidence is all that is wanted, and everything will come all right. The 1,000,000 people who have added to the idle forces of the country might be fit subjects upon which administration orators could waste some of their confidence rhetoric, and see if it would serve the place of bread and meat of which these people are in want.

A Curious Revelation.

A curious revelation was made in the United States senate the other day during a colloquy between Senator Bacon of Georgia, and Senator Vest, of Missouri.

The subject matter was the placing of a $2 tariff upon lumber. Senator Vest was anxious for free lumber and Senator Bacon believed that lumber should pay its part of the revenue as well as everything else which was being taxed by the government. The question arose as to what constituted a prohibitive percentage, when it developed that Senator Vest regarded 20 per cent as being on the verge of prohibition. It was at this point that Senator Bacon felt called upon to repel the remarks of Senator Vest by reminding im that but three years ago he assisted in pushing through a tariff bill the average rate of which was 40 per cent.

Being pushed to the wall to explain why it was that he now wanted less than 20 per cent when he insisted upon 40 when he had the power to make it 20, Senator Vest said:

Mr. President, I enter my protest against the act of 1894 being considered as a precedent for the democratic party, or that those of us who voted for it, entertaining the opinions that I do, should be held refor the duties in that have stated repeatedly that that bill was passed, so far as my vote was concerned, litical duress, because the president United States, the head of my party, and the secretary of the treasury said it was absolutely necessary to pass a tariff bill, and we had to make concessions, even against our judgment, in regard to the duties that were imposed.

Here we have a curious revelation, which shows as time progresses that if session of it, and working as his own istence by a lot of conscienceless adventurers, it was when the men behind Mr Cleveland, to whom he was a most obe dient servant, seized the government in the name of democracy, and at onc proceeded to deliver it over, not only gold standardism, but to some of the most abominable features of a pro-tective tariff policy. Yet some of the very men who upheld the "political duress" under which a so-called democratic president and a so-called democratic secretary of the treasury forced democratic senators to pass a protective bill higher than Sam Randall ever dreamed of, are now undertaking to criticise Senator Bacon for his efforts to make the application of a bill, the passage of which is inevitable, uniform in its effects throughout the country.

When a senator of the United States is forced from his place in the senate chamber to protest against responsibility for protective tariff legislation because has been forced into it by a democratic administration, it presents a most pitiable scene. It suggests also that Mr. Wilson, the author of the 40 per cent bill, might be engaged in other work than in attacking democrats who are trying to re-establish the good name of

A Proper Amendment.

As one effect of the attention which has been drawn to the inequality of the Dingley tariff bill the senate has placed cotton bagging and cotton ties on the free list, thus giving these necessary articles in handling cotton the same position which has been granted the bagging and twining commodities required in the agriculture of the north and west. It has hitherto been the case whenever a tariff bill was made up, for the northern and western farmer to be taken care of, while high duties were placed on the articles which enter into the marketing of southern products. The change now made, by which the farmers of all sections are placed upon an equality as regards the above items, is a good one and it is to be hoped that when the measure goes into conference these amendments will stand and become a part of the law. We cannot prevent the passage of the Dingley bill, because that is a foregone esult of the election of last November, but since we are to have it, it should square up to every section of the country, treating all alike, and falling as evenly in its provisions as it is possible for such a bill to do.

The Wrong View

prospects of immigration by The News and Observer, of Raleigh, N. C., and The News, of Savannah, Ga., while based on a certain amount of fact, is misleading, and does not indicate what the future has in store for the southern states.

The articles in our two esteemed contemporaries, to which we refer, are based upon the following Associated Press dispatch of recent date:

The Kreutz Zeltung warns German farm ers against the invitations of emigrant agents to settle in the southern states of America and calls upon the government to ssue a strict prohibitive decree agains such emigration, "since German are too good to compete with black labor in the cotton and rice fields."

The News and Observer, paying undue attention to the importance of the dispatch quoted, credits it as being a genuine objection to the south on the part of German publicists, when in fact it is nothing more than a clever piece of strategic work performed by certain western railroads for the purpose of keeping up the stream of German emigration in that direction. The Kreutz Zeitung is just as amenable to the approaches of a clever advertising agent as is any of its contemporaries on this side of the water. Therefore the article is of but temporary effect, and does not indicate a fixed condition of things as it appears to The News and Observer. The objections which western railroads set up against emigration to the south should be met by the railroad companies whose interests are wrapped up in southern progress. With superior argument they can easily beat down the men of straw which the great western railroad companies set up to lead the phlegmatic German away. But enough on this point. We fear that in the article of The News and Observer too much has been granted as to the interference of the negro with immigration. What The News and Observer says was all correct as applied to the situation before the war, but with emancipation a different condition has been developed. Negro labor is no longer the rule as it once was. In large areas of the south it will be found that labor of all kinds is performed by white men, and that it is largely passing into their hands. The south is an agricultural country almost wholly, and as a consequence agricultural labor is the measure by which this argument has to be considered. If the south as an agricultural country was already fully settled and lands were scarce and dear, so that there was established a laboring class who had no hope of ever owning the land, some of what The News and Observer says might still be true, but what are the facts? There is not a county in the entire south in which lands are not for sale in abundance at prices so low that any sober white man can own his own farm within a few years. He does not even have to work as the laborer to earn the money to buy it, but he can get immediate pos-example of this kind can be pointed out in the colony of Fitzgerald in this where northern white men settled, doing their own work, making their own company and not in the least troubled by the presence of the negro. This being the case, there is no reason is the argument that a white man has to fear negro social influences. As a rule, when foreigners come to this country they come for the purpose of owning the land upon which they work, Generations must yet elapse before the labor market in the south can become so congested that we will have what is known in other countries as an exclusively labor population. In a country every man may own his own home, where the acres are fertile, where he can get more, return for a given amount of work than anywhere else in the world, there is certainly offered to the German or any other immigrant the best field in which to work out his fortune and to make a home for his family. The negro is not in the way in the south. though interested emigration agents may try to make it appear so The Savannah News is also unfortunate in having attached too much importance to the presence of the negro, who retires as the white man advances

What Shall Our Girls Do?

The sweet girl graduate is the sub ject of one of Editor Bok's characteristic articles in the current number of The Ladies' Home Journal. At this particular season of the year, when the various institutions of learning through out the country are still grinding out thousands of these bewitching products of academic culture, the discussion which Editor Bok opens up is highly opportune, and is sure to strike a sympathete chord in the popular heart.

In discussing the subject Editor Bok wisely ignores its sentimental features and addresses himself exclusively to its practical aspects, as follows: What is a young lady to do, when put ting her school days behind her, she steps out upon the threshhold of a new phase of life? She has latent power within her, but how to use it is the question. Homeseems small to her in comparison with col lege halls. The life of her parents seems a bit precise and circumscribed compared with the hours of girlish companionship in college. She feels just a little shut in; she longs to put her knowledge to some use. But in what direction? Common duties seem hardly worthy of her, she must have some wider and more brilliant field of ac-tivity. It is a noble track in a girl when returning home from college she realizes the necessity for bread-winning and feels impelled to put her knowledge to use. Under such circumstances a girl has not much choice. Her duty is very clear to her. But where the desire for a career opens itself before her from pure ambition only, then it is that two diverging paths appear. The desire to do something in the world is laudto misconstrue the "something" and to see the wrong world. And here, unless she is very careful, the young woman just out of college and standing on the threshold of a new life is apt to make her greatest mistake.

These wise observations of Editor Bok should not be lost upon the multitude of fair young graduates who are today asking themselves the question, What shall I do in life? At the pres ent time there are few avenues which are not open to the fair sex. Forty years ago the profession of school-teaching was the only one in which women, to any marked extent, figured; today they are found at the bar, in the pulpit, on the hustings, in the medical profession and in almost every other scientific pursuit. Institutions of learning for the technical and liberal education of the fair sex have sprung up in all parts of the country within the past few years, and yet the demand for female seminaries is every day increasing. Of course the effect of these changed conditions is to embarrass a woman's choice of occupation. In the multitude of fields stretching out before her it is natural that her mind should be confused. But at this critical juncture she should bear in mind that the sphere of usefulness which providence has described for her is largely restricted to the home, and that whatever decision she makes with regard to the future must be made with this sublime fact in view. After all it is about the fireside that woman's greatest power is exercised, and not upon the hustings or in the pulpit. Without the slightest taint or exaggeration it may be said that the world's progress in all noble directions is at last traceable to the silent influence which true women have exercised in their home spheres What grander field of usefulness could possibly open up to woman than the one which she has filled with such grace and beauty for the past 6,000 years? While the intellectual progress of the sex is hailed with rejoicing, it cannot be denied that grave evils obtrude themselves in the wake of fais development and that far-reaching responsibilities grow out of it. In reflecting upon the serious question, therefore, what shall I do in life? the gifted young women of our country should be extremely care lest, in reaching out after the sordid ends of mere selfish ambition, they

The only Chinese typewriting machine in the world, says a leading exchange, is the one at Tungehow, the property and in vention of Dr. Sheffield, of the North China dlege. In concentric circles on the lower face of an electrotyped metal wheel about nine feet in circumference are arranged some 4,000 characters, and on the upper face printed characters are arranged in corresponding positions. By combined rotary and right and left movements and the use of a "finger," any character on the lower face may be quickly brought over a fixed slot through which the hammer works from below. The prince of Wales has a new hat and soon all the men of fashion in England will be wearing headpieces just like it. Every now and then Albert Edward invents a new style of hat or revives an old one, and the hatter who gets the order is kept busy supplying his customers with the same kind of article. The prince's new hat is in reality a copy of the beaver of long ago and is amazingly like the tradi-tional headdress of Uncle Sam. Congressman John De Witt Warner has insisted on wearing just such a hat for several years. He has been laughed at, but it is now by no means improbable that it will be popular, since such a distinguished glass of fashion as his royal highness has taken it up. The prince of Wales invents his own styles as a rule. The bell-shaped stovepipe so common a few years ago was his conceit was also first worn by the prince of Wales. The new old hat which the prince is now wearing is not the shaggy thing of old, but a fine, sleek, glossy, black slik affair, with an exaggerated bell-shaped crown, a wide band and a very broad brim, well turned up at the sides. It is strikingly jaunty and well becomes his style of face and the cut of his beard. This hat, it should be said, will not look well on young men, es-pecially if they be slim, but it will without doubt draw its wearers largely from that description of fashion's followers. The distinguished electrician, Professor Forbes, has been employed by the Egyptian government to make a study of the fea-sibility of utilizing the power of the Nile cataracts for generating electricity. After looking into the matter he reports that the general circumstances of Egypt are well adapted to its use. Coal becomes enormously dear in upper Egypt owing to the expense of transportation from Alexandria, and the cataract power would be available all the year round for working the railroads, cotton ginning mills, sugar factories and irrigating machines. It could be supplied over distances of several hundred miles at a cost much below that of coal. A re-cent census shows that the popula-tion of Egypt is now about 9,000,000. This is a gain of 30 per cent over the census of under Napoleon the population to have been only about 2,000,000; in 1845, 3,000,000. The Greek geographers estimate the population under Rameses the Great as 7,000,000 or 8,000,000. If they were correct then Egypt under British control has surpassed the most prosperous period of old times It is certainly encouraging to think of this ancient land equipped with all the latest appliances of our material civilization.

A Unique Scheme for Driving Off

Grasshoppers. W. R. Birmingham, of Oakland, a few years ago purchased a large Wact of land in the river bottom below Pollasky, and has since put out over 18,000 fruit trees. There was a small orchard on the place when he purchased it, and these elder trees are in full bearing, while peach trees but three and four years old have borne large crops. The soil is deep silt, and very fertile, says The Fresno Republican. Mr. Birmingham put in a large gasoline engine and pump, and pumps water from the San Joaquin river with which to irri-gate. The orchard presents a very thrifty appearance, and all the trees that are old enough are loaded with fruit. Last Thursday an army of grasshopper came down from the hills to the southeas and invaded one corner of the orchard. They were too young to fly much and could only hop and crawl, but they had a voracious appetite, and within a few hours had eaten every leaf from every tree over an area of five acres.

There was in the garden tract nearly everything in the vegetable line, but the hoppers showed no preference whatever, eating everything clean as they went Squash vines that were very thrifty, each of which covered a space of perhaps six feet square, were eaten off clean. Strawberries were eaten without cream, and every berry and vegetable in the garden went to fatten grasshoppers. And there were millions upon millions of hoppers and hoppers. They are not of the seventeenyear variety, either, but just commo every-day foothill grasshoppers with a mountain appetite. As their wings are not large enough to enable them to indulge the disposition prevalent in both man and ani-mal to hurry on to other localities in search of greener or better pastures, they just hop and crawl upon the trees and seem as if they can eat for twenty-four hours without a rest. Mr. Birmingham at once put an adver-timent in The Republican that he wanted 1,000 turkeys. A wagon load of turkeys passed through Fresno yesterday morning en route for Pollasky, but he wants all he

As an experiment Mr. Birmingham mixed with a quart of middlings and a quart of bran one pound of arsenic and set the mixture before the invading army. They ate with a relish and—marched onward, right onward. He says he didn't find a dead grasshopper.

Two years ago the boppers invaded the same orchard. Mr. Birmingham found a Portuguese who had a band of 700 turkeys, and at once made arrangements with him

The owner of the turkeys had several well trained shepherd dogs, and with their aid twenty-five turkeys were alietted to each row of trees, and herded slowly along, eating hoppers as they went. Men were sent in advance to shake the hoppers from the trees, and the turkeys did the rest. The hoppers were totally destroyed and the orchard saved.

CHAT WITH THE STATE PRESS.

The Albany Herald, while acknowledging that there may be something wrong in the state geological department, or it may be that the Bialock investigating committee has discovered that the department is no being properly managed; that this should not be made the excuse for raising a nue and cry for the abolishment of the depurtment. The state cannot afford to abolish this department. Her mineral interests are just now beginning to attract attention, and there will be more for the de-partment to do in the future than there has been in the past. If the present state geologist is not a good man for the position he occupies the state can get another.

According to The Dawson News, William J. Bryan, the matchless democratic leader grows stronger with the masses ever day. In the next campaign he will lead the party again, and to an overwhele yletory. The continued assaults of Bucknerites only rally the people close about him.

The Blalock committee comes in for this riticism from The Macon News:

criticism from The Macon News:

"It is beginning to dawn upon the people that the much-heralded Blalock investigating committee is simply engaged in creating a tempest in a teapot. While the committee has succeeded in revealing some minor irregularities in several branches of the state's service, it has really accomplished very little of practical benefit.
"The committee made a mistake at the outset by not keeping its business to itself until its work had been finished, instead of making all of its alleged discoveries and outset by hot keeping to until its work had been finished, instead of making all of its alleged discoveries and even its suspicions public almost before it had heard all of the ex parte evidence or which it has acted.
"By pursuing this plan it has not only worked an injustice to some of the highest and most trusted officials of the state, but it has brought discredit on itself and caused the public to doubt the reliability of its revelations by having the same easily and completely refuted by the officials whose methods and integrity were called in question.

"If there was ever any real need for an investigation of the various department of state, certainly the matter was too important to be dealt with in the childish manner pursued by the committee. Its work should have been thorough, careful and secret, and the results of this work should have been reported back to the general assembly. It would then have been for the latter body to pass upon the committee's report and to make such disclosures as seemed necessary.

"The Blalock committee's relation to the general assembly is the same as that of a sub-committee to a grand jury. It would be manifestly absurd for a grand jury committee, while investigating the affairs of each county officer to retail its discoveries, whether they are satisfactory or otherwise, to the newspapers, instead of rendering its report at the proper time to the body to whom it is responsible.

"The Blalock committee's mistake has resulted in a wordy war between members of the committee and different heads of the state government, all of which is unbecoming as well as detrimental to the state.

The net result of the committee's work, so far, seems to have been to give certain members of the committee a little newspaper, retoriety, so which they have been as the committee of the committee as the committee of the com paper notoriety, on which they have sumed to base little political booms of rious dimensions."

The Savannah Press has this:

"If the lamented Russell were alive to lead the fight Massachusetts might be carried by the democrats this year on the tariff issue." Especially one like the Wilson bill, which placed wool on the free list while putting per cent protection on the Massachusetts manufactured article.

Says The Lawrenceville Herald:

Says The Lawrenceville Herald:

"Bryan's popularity seems to increase rather than to be on the wane. Most men who run for the presidency and are defeated are regarded in this fast age as back numbers, and retire to the seclusion of private life, but not so with Bryan. He is more popular today than last October. He is regarded as a national issue, for the reason that he represents a principle. It is not the man, but the free sliver theory of government that grows in popularity every day. The people feel that we are on a gold basis, and it has accomplished just what was predicted, brought ruin, depression and bankruptcy on the country. Here we are groveling along, waiting for that tide of prosperity which was to come under McKinley's rule and the fixed gold standard and the cry comes up from every department of business for relief. The republicans seek to bring back prosperity by heavy taxation—by building up the manufacturers at the expense of the people, but even their tariff programme, if ever enacted, will not meet the wants of the people, and next year when the people have a chance to be heard at the ballot box, such a revolution as will follow has not been seen for many years. The democratic party will have a majority in the house in the next congress. Mark the prediction."

Milt Camp is building up a state reputation. The LaGrange Graphic says of him:
"Atlanta is to be congratulated upon the possession of a city father with, so level a head as has Councilman Milt Camp. The Graphic does not know this gentleman personally, but from his stand upon various questions which have come up recently in the management of Atlanta's affairs, it recognizes in him a man of strong common sense, who stands as a barrier against fanaticism and puritanism and modern womanism. Atlanta is to be congratulated manism. Atlanta is to be congratulated upon the possession of Milt Camp."

Mr. J. H. Goodin, one of Wilcox cour ty's prosperous farmers, has a stalk of cotton from which most of the leaves, the forms and blooms have been eaten by a new enemy of the cotton plant. At least none of the farmers in this section ever saw or heard of it before. The pest is a small bug about the size and appearance of the bedbug. They attack the plant in large numbers and voraciously devour the leaves, forms and blooms. Mr. Goodin reports great ravages in his and his neigh-bors' cotton fields by this new enemy to the money crop of the farmers.

There is no doubt, says The Blakely Ob server, that extravagance in both private and public expeditures is a growing evil not only in the United States, but in all the nations of the world. The result is that almost every nation is in more or less financial trouble because of the difficulty in making its income meet its expenditures.

TODAY'S BAR CALL POSTPONED It Will Be Held Tuesday Morning in the City Court at 9 O'Clock.

There will be no bar meeting this after noon in the first division of the city court Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock the regular appearance docket will be called and the bar meeting will be held immediately after the call of that docket. This arra nent is due to the large number of lawyers who are absent from the city in at-tendance upon the session of the Georgia Bar Association in Warm Springs. COMMITTEES MEET TODAY.

Finance, Tax, Electric Lights and Sew er Committees To Hold Session.

Today will be quite a lively one at the city hall. Several council committees will meet this afternoon and some interesting questions are to be disposed of by them The finance committee, the tax committee the electric light committee, and the sew ers committee are to meet and others may be called during the day.

The finance committee may take up the question of employing a singing master in the public schools. At the last meeting of the council a resolution was introduced authorizing the employment of such an instructor and it was referred to the finance committee. Judge Howard Van Epps, president of the board of education, and Dr. L. P. Stephens, councilman from the fifth ward, chairman of the school con mittee, will appear before the finance com-mittee and speak on the subject of a public chools music instructor.

The tax committee will take up the question of sidewalk fruit stards. Quite a number of property owners have asked the committee to report in favor of allowing sidewalk fruit stands to be maintained in front of their property. The question is an important one and action on it was costponed until Mayor Collier can be present, he having taken a stand against the sidewalk fruit stands.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Prince Siddartha and His Teachings. Editor Constitution—Buddha is not the name of the founder of the religion com-nonly known as Buddhism, but is a term indicating "a state or condition of the mind." The founder of Buddhism was a prince in India, whose royal name was Siddartha, and whose family name was Gautama or cotama. He was born in the north of India in the year 623 B. C., so he was a young man when the Jews were carried captives to Rabylon.

Today fully ofe-fourth of the people on the earth worshi, him in one way or an-other. Gautama sever claimed to be the true God or even a god. At the age of sixteen he was married to a beautiful Indian princess and o them one son was born. In the jungle he met some hermit Brahmans—Brahmanism being much older than Buddhism—who told him that "by severe

In the jungle he met some hermit Brahmans—Brahmanism being much older than Buddhism—who told him that "by severe penances and torture of the body a man may acquire perfect wisdem." But Gautama did not believe this, so he went alone and "spent several years in deep meditation and fasting." by means of which he entered into Buddhahood; that is, he became Buddha, "the enlightened and all-knowing." He is now spoken of as Lord Buddha, of the Buddha, while those of his followers who have since attained to Buddhahood are called simply Buddhas.

As Prince Biddartha entered lato this all-knowing state in the jungle it is said that he discovered the secret of human misery—ignorance; also the light that candispel this ignorance of ours and remove all sorrows. This light he called the 'four noble truths." They are: 1. "The niseries of ignorance; 2. The cause productive of misery, which is the desire ever renewed of satisfying one's self without being ever able to secure that end; 3. The destruction of that desire or the estranging of one's self from it: 4. The means of obtaining this destruction of desire." Gautama taught that by knowing these four principles a man literally works out his own salvation without any outside help, and thus by a process of rebirths, reaches Nirvana, which is an Indian name for the paradise of Buddhists. Nirvana is defined as a condition of total cessation of changes, of perfect rest, of the absence of desire and illusion and sorrow; of the total obliteration of every thing that goes to make up the physical man. Before reaching Nirvana a man is continually being reborn; when he reaches Nirvana he is reborn no more." Gautama taught that man should not acknowledge or expect anything from a divine source, that the doctrine of a personal god is only a "gigantic shadow;" that the highest goodness is attained without the assistance of God; that man may secure a 'continued existence without a soul; that there is a method of salvation without a savior; that a redemption may be obtained by one's self as amaigamate Christianity with any other religion is not only treason against Christ but dire folly in itself. One is pure of that will forever float, the others are water and dregs beneath it. One is divine, the others are human. WILL P. TURNER.

That Big Map.

Editor Constitution—I note in your issue of Monday that somebody is displeased that over the Georgia exhibit a map shows 'Birmingham district." This is a map ex "Birmingham district." This is a map exhibited at the Atlanta exposition furnished by the United States government and put up by the Centennial Company and extends around the entire mineral building. This map is beyond the jurisdiction of the governor of Georgia and above the right of control by Dr. Yeates, since it is more than fifteen feet above the floor, which is the limit of an exhibitor; control. It only the limit of an exhibitor's control. It only happens to be over the Georgia exhibit since it had to be over somebody's exhibit, as it is 800 feet longs Individually, I have three exhibits in the mineral building. One from Alabama and two from Tennessee. Not one is located anywhere near the geological section to which it belongs, as shown by this map which overhangs all the exhibit the entire length of both sides the building. To take out any section of this map would be to destroy the whole map, which by the way is one of the most comprehensive as well as satisfactory exhibits in the whole mineral collection.

As for Georgia and her exhibit, she ought to be proud of the exhibit. It is evidently collected with great care, is installed with exceptional ability both for instruc-tion and artistic expression and is a most valuable exhibit to Georgia as well as to the Tennessee Centennial. Yours truly, E. C. LEWIS, Director General.

Tom's Heroic Rescue.

A man bearing the classic name of Ton ones has been for a long time the most enthusiastic unofficial assistant which the volunteer fire department of a little Massachusetts town had, says Harper's Bazar He began his career in the fire-opp line by rescuing an aged citizen from a burn ing building, and ever after his specialty was saving something, either property or life. The fact that the aged citizen was the meanest man in town rather worked against Tom's receiving the credit for his first rescue which was his due, but this was gradually overlooked by the better element, and Tom's reputation grew. A few years ago a fire broke out in the dwelling of General S-, which was the finest residence in the place. It may be explained that though Tom had a very fair experimental knowledge of a popular brand state liquor, his information concerning wines was of the most rudimentary char-acter. It may be added further that the general was believed locally always to have a fabulous stock of the choicest vintages on hand, a condition of affairs, by the way, which caused many a wagging of heads at village tea parties and similar functions. On the occasion of the fire in the general's house the firemen promptly appeared, and Tom was one of the first to rush into the building. The family being all out, he arned his attention to the moving of property. With the flavor of a strong concoction just absorbed at the village tavern still on his palate, he naturally thought of the priceless wines, and was soon seen emerging from the house carrying something carefully wrapped in a small rug. He bore it to a neighboring acant lot, put it down beside a tree, and proceeded to stand guard over it. When asked by stand guard over it. When asked by friends why he did not return to the burning building and continue his labors, he replied, in a mysterious whisper:

"'Ssh! Got a crate of the general's best wine here. Dasn't leave it for fear it gets wine here. Dasn't leave it for fear it gets broke or hooked. You bet the general will thank me for saving it, and maybe he'll give me a bottle."

So Tom stood over the bundle and guarded it as a mother might guard her babe till the fire was extinguished. He then took it up tenderly and approached the general, who was on the outskirts of the crowd, and was naturally somewhat excited. Two or three bosom friends of the rescuer, not unwilling to share the possible bottle, trailed behind.
"Excuse me, general," said Tom, "but I Excuse me, general," said Tom, "but I knowed the store you sot by your fine wines, so I just snatched up a few bottles and brought 'em out. Had to watch 'em and brought 'em out. Had to watch 'em close since, too, or some scalawag would 'a' hooked 'em. Mighty smoky in there 'bout then, I tell you, general," and Tom folded back the rug and displayed a half dozen globular bottles in a wire rack.

"Wine!" roared the general, looking at the bottles. "Why, you infernal idiot, you ought to have thrown them at the fire: Those things are patent fire extinguishers." MEN AND MATTERS.

Mr. Cofield, who has twice been elected secretary of the body, has just been made second vice president for the ensuing year, and Mr. Anderson was placed on the legislative committee as representative of the conven-tion in this most important branch of the business. This action of the convention is not only complimentary to the gentle-men named, but also to the sterling young men named, but also to the sterling young insurance company that these gentlemen ond their associates established in Atlanta on its present sound financial basis. In thus repeatedly honoring the officers of the Bankers' Insurance company, of Atlanta, the convention recognizes that the south has a really worthy and successful insurance company built on right lines and destined to a brilliant career. company's steady growth in three years to over $5,700,000 accepted insurance written, and over $70,000 net assets accumulated, with every death claim paid before due, and this in distressingly hard times, while many other institutions were hardly holding their own, certainly constitutes a record to be proud of, and which justifies the convention of underwriters in their complimentary action. Dr. W. J. Headden, of Austell, Ga., brings or. W. J. Headden, of Adam. da., orings in a mammoth cabbage raised on his place, the Cowpens farm, a mile and a half from Austell. This beautiful specimen from the garden measured four feet across as it stood on its stalk, and when cut it weigh-

The question in Dr. Headden's mind is, all the rest, among them the specimen brought to The Constitution.

Dr. Headden has spent the most of his life in a drug store, and this is his first season on a farm, and his intelligent methods and thorough cultivation of his crops are worth studying. He states that a great deal of his information has been received through the farm page of The Weekiy Constitution, which he reads with interest every issue and he has never read a copy that he has not felt himself doung repaid for his whole year's subscription. He gives some very interesting facts about his cabbage crop—for instance, on the ground necessary to raise twelve ears of corn he has raised three cabbage that netted him $2.76, enough to buy five bushels of corn; he claims justly that he has practically raised 1,500 bushels of corn on his cabbage acre, because with the income brought by it he could easily buy 1,500 bushels of orn. He states, too, that he has found a very ready market for all his crop and has sold it promptly for a cent and a half per pound as fast as he could bring the cabbage in.

He states that cabbage brings in the Loylsville, Ky, market one and one-fourn cents a pound, while Atlanta pays one and a half. We do not present these figures to have Atlanta flooded with cabbage, but there are other points both in this state and throughout the south where no doubt the same prices could be obtained.

The example of Dr. Headden is commended to those who are barely making a living in the towns, believing that the condition of a great number could be vastly improved by the cultivation of trück farms and the planting of regular field crops. Will Show Many Features of the Frenchman's Life Not Generally Known.

Paris, July 1 .- M. Leon Lichtre, curator of the French archives, will issue during the present week the first volume of the letters which were suppressed by the editors of Napoleon's correspondence, is sued in 1869, as not calculated to increase the glory of the great French emperor. The volume includes some heated family letters and some vigorously worded epistles to Fouche and Dubois, the ministers of po-lice and war, respectively. The letter to Marshal Soult in 1804 shows that Napo did not hesitate in adopting any means to obtain confessions.

Giving instructions in one case he says:

"If he refuses to speak you must squeeze his thumbs in a musket lock." This was a method adopted to extract confessions from persons suspected espionage. Learning in 1807, through Marshal Victor, that Prince Augustus of Prussla was in-triguing against him in Berlin Napoleon wrote:

"I am not astonished because he has a dull mind and has spent his time courting Mme. de Stael at Coppol, Switzerland, and, of course, could only pick up bad habits with her. Send word to him that the mischievous remark he utters I will lock him up in his castle and send Mme. de Stael to console him." to Talleyrand in 1809 that the princes of the former reigning family of Spain were about to arrive in Valencia. Napoleon says:

DEAD, DEAD, DEAD! SOUND THE DIRGE!

This Is the Funeral Cry of Jim Barrett on Populism.

POPULISTS HAVE NO PARTY

Augusta Leader Declares That All Is Lost to People's Party.

TOM WATSON IS ALONE IN HIS GLORY

It Is Said That He Will Be an ... P. A. and Will Leave the Party Which He Has Led So Long.

"The populist party is dead. It's coffin was built at St. Louis and its interment will come at Nashville."

Colonel Jim Barrett, of Augusta, who has been one of the most prominent members of the people's party in Georgia, was speaking. He was on the last state ticket and has been the tower of populistic strength in the tenth district.

Colonel Barrett declares that the party to which he has been allied for so many years will disintegrate and that the forces which are to destroy it have been at work for a long while.

eyes you ought to have seen that there were not a hundred delegates at that convention last week. The funeral dirge was sounded them. All of us knew that there would be no hope for reorganizing the party again. It is gone and there is no

"What will become of the remnant? Well, that is hard to say. I suppose a part, if McKinley will offer them the proper pap, will go over to the republicans and ally themselves with that party. There will be a large crowd which will go in with the American Protective Association gang. As for Hines. Ellington, Peek, Carter and the more intelligent leaders they will come back to democracy, for that is the party for southern men if they are going into any party. As for myself, if I am going to eat any kind of dog I had rather eat democratic dog.

cratic party. I am not going in with the black crowd, you can bet that." As to the fight which has been made on him in Augusta Colonel Barrett has some significant revelations to make. "It's because I have refused to go in with this American Protective move," he said. "I have upon certain occasions said what I thought of that order, and because the populists in Richmond have taken up the American Protective Association doctrine

"I have known for a long time that Watson leaned toward the American Protective Association, but I have no idea that he will publicly take up the movement. He is opposed to secret orders, but I believe that he will control it and use it as a kind of engine to carry out his wishes. Just as Alex Stephens did, you know, with the know-nothing party. He did not seemingly enter into it but was said to have "No, the party is dead. It's fate is sealed and its doom is near. I can't say how far the American Protective Association idea will govern them. It may take hold in the cities, but the farmers will go back to democracy, they will come back to the old party and fight out their battles in there without the leadership of such selfish individuals as those for whom they

This statement from Colonel Barrett is the most startling news of a political nature which has come forth for some time. It has been rumored that the party would split, and that the elements of American Protection Associationism would enter into it, but this is the first statement which has come from a prominent leader that the populist party is at last defunct.

Colonel Barrett predicts that the convention which will come in Nashville next Monday will be the last gathering the populists as a party will ever have. He says the cause is dead and will never be revived.

"BLOODY THIRTIETH" TO MEET Will Hold Its Annual Reunion at Riverdale July 30th. The famous regiment known as the "Bloody Thirtleth," will hold its annual reunion on the 30th of this month. The coming reunion will be held at Riverdale, fifteen miles from Atlanta. Special trains will be run from Atlanta over the Atlanta and Florida railroad, and cheap rates will be given to the people who want to attend.

The reunion of this well-known regiment will be a great event among the con-federate veterans. The "Bloody Thirtieth" won renown at the battle of Chickamauga, won renown at the battle of Chickamauga, when nearly every man was shot down in the desperate fight. Those who live to hold the reunion ail wear grim souvenirs of that fateful day, and because of the fact that nearly every man in the regiment was either killed or wounded while doing gallant fightfur, the regiment has been given the name of the "Bloody Thirtieth."

The reunions have always been memorable occasions. Thousands of people attend every year, and always several hundred go from Atlanta.

VIOLATED AN ORDINANCE.

Sanitary Inspector Discovery at the Police Barracks A sanitary inspector discovered yesterday that the police department was violating one of the city ordinances regulating sanitary matters.

There is at the police barracks a sink which is connected by an open pipe with a rain water leader. The sink is on the roof and is used for washing spittoons.

The sanitary officer notified the chief of police and he promised to have the matter fixed at once.

"We are law abiding citizens," said the chief, "and we will see that the city does rot hereafter violate one of her own ordinances."

A BLIND GIRL'S FRIENDS.

The Kind Treatment Shown to the Homeless Rosa Payne.

Yesterday afternoon a young girl sat in the office of the chief of police awaiting the matron of the barracks. She was neatly clad and she had a bright face, but she was blind. A year ago Rosa Payne was taken in charge by kind-hearted ladies of Atlanta, Some Current Topics Pictorially Presented.

who had compassion on her because she was young, friendless and blind, and she was sent by them to an asylum near Decatur, where she has been taught and provided with the necessaries of life for twelve months. It came time for her to leave her temporary home, and the ladies looked about to find her a permanent one. They got a lady to take her who lives outside the city on the East Tennessee railroad, and Rosa was sent for yesterday and brought to Atlanta.

Mrs. Brice Smith took the young girl in charge and carried her to the police barracks for the purpose of having her looked after for a day or two by the police matron. looked after for a day or two by the po-lice matron.

The girl seems to be happy, and never tires of talking about the kindness that has been shown her.

The officer ran into the middle of the street and grabbed the bridle of the horse. He succeeded in checking the horse's pace, but was dragged and badly bruised. He was sent to his home and the matter reported at the barracks to Captain Manly.

Those who witnessed the policeman's bravery were loud in their praises of his act.

Mr. Moss is stopping at the Bellmont, 62 Walton street, and will be pleased to talk with any one desiring to visit the springs or use the water at their home. The wonder-ful curative properties of these waters are so widely known on both continents that they need no commendation at our hands. Their remarkable solvent power and disintegrating and eliminating stone in the bladder is verified not only by the best physicians in this country, but by such men as Dr. A. Gabriel Pouchet, of the faculty of medicine of Paris and director of the bor medicine of Faris and director of the laboratory of the consulting committee of public hygiene of France; Dr. John Attfield, F. I. C., of London, also George Halsted Boyland, M. A., M. D., member of the Academy of Medicine, Paris, and former resident physician at Buffalo Springs. These waters are equally as effective in all. These waters are equally as effective in all kinds of billary, calculf, jaundice, liver affections, etc. They will cure malaria when all other remedies prove worthless. Says Dr. John H. Tucker, president of the Medical Society of North Carolina: "I have obtained excellent results from Buf-falo Lithia Water in gout, rheumatism and all affections dependent upon a uric acid diathesis, especially for pale people, feeble and anaemic subjects. Dr. William A. Hammond, the specialist of nervous diseases, recommends it "In cerebral coneases, recommends it "In cerebral congestions producing insomnia and nervous prostration, resulting in over mental work or much emotional disturbance." Dr. John Herbert Claiborn, of Petersburg, Va., in speaking of the wonderful powers of these waters, says: "There's nothing in its analysis that warrants its results, but results are there, and seeing is believing. I can only suppose that in nature's alembic there has been some settled solvent evolved, too subtle to be caught by our course re-agents, which make this wonderful disintegration."

WATSON WILL LEAD NASHVILLE REVOLT

The Georgia Populist Leader Will Be Mr. J. Pope Brown To Call His Com There Large as Life.

Meeting Promises To Be the Hottest

Event of the Year.

And the Meeting Will Result in Disruption of Populists or in a New Party.

Tom Watson will lead the populist rebellion in the first determined battle against the party organization which will be made by the national conference at Nashville

Tom is going. He has bought and paid for his ticket, and when the cow horn is blown to summon the hosts together in Tennessee's capital on Monday he will be there. Once more the populists will see their idol at the front. Once more his fearless and aggressive words and deeds shall deny the rumor that he has deserted the opulists. Watson will go to Nashville in that quiet, unpretentious way of his, but he will go with the firm determination of having his presence known before the conference is closed. His will be the will that will con-trol the meeting. The magic force and eloquence of the man will be the potent qualities that will magnetize the delegates and direct each act of the conference. Tom will be in his glory. There will be fighting. His bold, combative spirit delights in fighting and he will be happy. Then he will be fighting a hated enemy. Watson was never happier than he will be when he strikes Marion Butler the brave, open blow he will certainly send home during the conference

Watson has his knife sharpened. Down there at Thomson he has been busy for many long weeks strapping away on the weapon. That knife will certainly be used on Marion Butler, and it may be used to sever the populists from their party organization. The populists say that the organization is by no means a part of the party. They say that the leaders such as Marion Butler are entirely separate from populist sentiment.

New Party May Be Formed.

New Party May Be Formed.

A new party, or new leaders, is demanded. The conference will bring one or the other. The followers of the people's party say they have enough of the present national executive committee. They must have new men at the helm.

They want Tom Watson. He is recognized as the leader and as the only man that can keep intact the populist party. The conference at Nashville depends on him. If he were not to go the spirit that prompted the call of the conference would be lacking. It is Tom Watson's meeting. It originated from his strong anti-fusion ideas and has been fostered by him. He has had little to say openly, but has been quietly at work preparing deadfalls to catch the unsuspecting pops who imagined that they were the natural successors of Watson as the head of the party. He has already mashed Yancey Carter flat beneath one of his traps and a few other ambitious populists may suffer the same fate.

Watson Has Been Silent.

Watson Has Been Silent. Watson has Been Silent.

Watson has kept secret the fact that he was going to attend the conference. He has refused to say to the newspapers whether or not he was going. But at last he has stated that he would go. He has put his friends on notice that they might lookout for him when the roll is called. He may not go up with the Georgia delegation. He has refused a pass and has paid for his ticket. He won't accept passes anyway.

The entire Georgia delegation will attend the conference. There will be thirty-nine delegates and several friends; in all about sixty-five. They will leave on a special train Sunday morning. Mr. Austin Holcombe, of the populist paper here, will go to Nashville this evening to arrange for the delegation:

HEARING OCCURS IN JACKSON BEFORE JUDGE BECK.

Thirty Grounds Compose the Basis Upon Which the Motion for New Trial Is Made. A final effort will be made this morning in behalf of Taylor Delk and the motion which was filed for new trial will be argued today in Jackson before Judge Marcus Beck. The argument will be made by Attorneys Charles J. Haden and J. L. Travis. It will be claimed in the argument that Delk has never received a fair and impartial trial in Zebulon on account of the inflamed and prejudiced mind of the public. The attorneys will urge that a change of venue be granted and that the new trial which will be insisted upon be held in some county of the state where Delk is not known and where the conditions will be more favorable for the prisoner.

The grounds upon which the new trial will be argued are thirty and every conceivable argument and influence will be brought to bear upon the case. Delk says he hopes to secure another trial, as he declares he has never been tried, claiming the former trials were but mock hearings in view of the fact that his worst enemies were members of the jury which convicted him before.

In the event a new trial is refused the

In the event a new trial is refused, the case will then go to the supreme court upon a fast bill of exceptions and there is every reason to doubt that the execution of the old man will occur on July 20th as has been set by Judge Beck.

AT JUDGE ANDY'S MATINEE

During Judge Andy's performance yesterday afternoon a white man testified against a negro boy and caused a conviction. When the witness left the courtroom he was followed by Jessie Isaacs, a negro woman who knows every belgian block on Decatur street. Jessie had become incensed because a white man had sworn against a boy of her color. She hailed him just outside the courtfoom and told nim that he had sworn to a lie.

In less than a pair of minutes Jessie found herself standing before Judge Andy as a prisoner, and in less than another pair of minutes she had been sent to the stockade for thirty days. During Judge Andy's performance yes

Gave Him a Second Dose. A Russian Jew runs a store on Decatur street with a whitewashed front, and he is in the police court nearly every day as a prosecutor. He was there yesterday and he had had Boykin Smith, a negro boy, arrested for fighting his son. The negroes seem to have a spite against Cohen and he always makes out his cases.

Boykin Smith stood convicted and the recorder entered a fine of $10 and costs. Boykin was angry and as he walked away he said:

he said:
"Walt till I get out of the stockade and I will fix you for this."

The recorder heard the remark and he called Boykin back and said:

"I will give you a second dose and put you in the stockade for thirty days."

Boykin was silent as he walked away the second time.

Knife, Razor and Rocks. Tom Pitts and Ed Eastman, two Decatur street negro swells, were arraigned for engaging in a fight in a barroom. It was shown that Tom had a knife and Ed a razor with a handle as white as the beautiful snow. They cursed and swore and pawed the earth, but there was no battle until Tom discarded the knife and secured an armful of bricks with which he attempted to extinguish Ed's earthly life, or at least disfigure his mug.

The recorder fined Tom $10 and dismissed the case against Ed.

But as Ed was about to start triumphantly from the courtroom 'he officer called him back and said there was an old It was shown that Tom had a knife and

FOR CHEATING AND SWINDLING. Interesting Case in Judge Foute's

Court Yesterday Afternoon.

Mrs. I. Ishbell, a middle aged white weman, was arraigned in Judge Foute's court yesterday afternoon on the charge of cheating and swindling. The prosecu-tor was a Miss Glover, who keeps a boarding house near the corner of Cain and Ivy streets. An unpaid board bill was the bone of contention.

Three weeks ago Mrs. Ishbell appeared at the above hostelry and applied for board. She was accompanied by another woman of about the same age. The landlady knew nothing about either of the strangers but assigned them to a room at 114 a week.

The first week expired and there was no pay. The second the same. Miss Glover began to grow uneasy and demanded the amount of her bill. Mrs. Ishbell stated she had a patent beyole tire for which she was soon to receive $5,000 in cold cash, when she could settle her debt without trouble.

The third week rolled around and the patent had not been sold and there was no money forthcoming. Miss Glover demanded her money again with the same result. She therefore went before Judge Foute and swore out a warrant for her lodger on the charge of cheating and swindling.

RECEIVER WILL SUE THE OLD DIRECTORS

Georgia Co-Operative Loan Company Litigation Takes a New Turn.

ORDER OF COURT IS GRANTED

Receiver Nutting Will File Suit in a Few Days To Recover Assets.

NEGLIGENT CONDUCT WILL BE CHARGED

It Is Claimed That the Members of the Board of Directors Did Not Properly Attend to Business.

The directors of the Georgia Co-Operative Loan Company may find themselves in not water before the end of the week, and suits may be filed against all the directors of the company by the receiver.

Several months ago Mr. J. R. Nutting Several months ago Mr. J. R. Nutting was appointed permanent receiver of the company and he was given all authority of the superior court to wind up the company's business and collect in the assets. He has been collecting the assets slowly since his appointment, and he now finds that much of the blame for the present condition of the company is due to the negligence of the directors of the company, who were supposed to have the management of the company in their hands. An order of court has been secured which authorizes Receiver Nutting to bring suits against the directors of the defunct company, and these officers will be asked to pay an amount sufficient to satisfy all the claims which are outstanding against the company and for the payment of which there is no fund in the hands of the receiver.

there is no fund in the hands of the re-ceiver. These suits may be filed within the next few days or they may not be filed for several weeks.

The Georgia Co-Operative Loan Company

the next few days or they may not be filed for several weeks.

The Georgia Co-Operative Loan Company was organized in 1890. One of the moving spirits in the organization of the company spirits in the organization of the company was J. D. Proctor, who was made the secretary and general manager of the company and was given the authority to direct the company and make loans to applicants. While the name of the company signifies that it was a loan company, it was, nevertheless, a building and loan association, enjoying the privileges under its charter, which was secured in 1890.

The first board of directors of the company were elected in April, 1890, at the organization of the company. This board was composed of the following gentlemen; J. C. Kimball, B. B. Crew, J. J. Barnes, J. D. Proctor, E. M. Roberts, H. C. Leonard and J. A. Anderson. The officers were selected as follows: J. C. Kimball, president: B. B. Crew, vice president; J. D. Proctor, secretary and general manager; J. J. Barnes, treasurer, and Judge James A. Anderson, counsel. These officers were in charge of the company for about a year, when another change came about. Mr. J. J. Barnes resigned as treasurer of the company and the American Trust and Banking Company, now the Fourth National bank, was selected as the treasurer of the company and the American G. O. Williams were also elected to positions on the board of directors. E. M. Roberts and G. O. Williams were appointed a board of appraisers, and thus the situation was at the last session of the board in 1892.

It is charged that the directors were negligent in the management of the company's business, and that Secretary Proctor was allowed to use his own discretion in the conduct of the business. The suits which are contemplated being filed will charge that it was due to the negligence of the board of directors that the company is now in its present dismantled condition. The order of the superior court charges that the directors have not discharged the duties of their office, and authority has bee

This Branch of our business has grown and extended so rapidly that an entirely separate and distinct department for it became an absolute necessity some time ago. Yielding to the demand of progress, we will turn the store over to the workmen next week for the purpose of enlarging and arranging for the display and selling of these goods. In the meantime we begin a Reduction Sale of Men's, Boys' and Children's Woolen Suits that in point of real cheapness has never been equaled in this section. WARM DEBATE

Mr. Stewart Woodson and Mr. Will Plane Disagree Before Committee.

MR. DICK ADAIR TAKES A HAND

Dispute About Washington Street Par ing Causes a Lively Scene.

PERSONALITIES INDULGED IN BY THE PARTIES

The Street Committee Is Entertained by an Interesting Discussion, but Settles the Question Itself.

There was a spirited debate before the street committee of the city council yesterday afternoon. Well-known citizens and business men engaged in a lively set-to and debate about that muchly-discussed question the paying of Well-known and well-known debate about that muchly-discussed question, the paving of Washington street, and for a time it looked as if trouble of a serious nature would develop.

For a moment or two it seemed that Mr. Stewart F. Woodson and Mr. Will Plane would hitch, and a little later that Mr. Woodson and Mr. Dick Adair might engage in a personal encounter, although neither gentleman made any motion toward the other. They were separated by the long committee table in the mayor's reception room and the committee tembers reception room and the committee members were probably glad of that fact.

The question before the committee was the ordinance directing the paving of Washington street with what is called the Williams wood block paving. Mr. Wood-bon and a few other citizens of Washington street have waged a determined oppo stion to the paying of the street with this material and they appeared before the committee for that purpose yesterday. Mr. Plane, Mr. Adair and others spoke for the

It was during the debate that a lively scene occurred. One of the gentlemen was arguing the merits of the question when the subject of a card written by Mr. Woodon, which appeared in last Sunday's Conbutution, was brought up

Mr. Woodson's Caustic Card. In that card Mr. Woodson used the following language: "The paving of a street is of the greatest importance to the property owners, and yet it is strange to note the apathy displayed in such important methods; particularly is this true of Washington street property owners just at this present time When a cheap, interior unnealthy and projectly owners just at this present time when a cheap, inter.or, unneathly and interfo unknown kind of pavement is about to be fosted upon the unsuspecting projectly owners of that beautiful residence street, while the most active persons engaged in rushing it through the council are two or three men who do not own a foot of property on the street, but who, through ties of kinship, have some political pull in the council. The pavement alluded to above is called here the 'Williams block pavement.'" pull in the councit. The pavement alluded to above is called here the 'Williams block pavement,'"

In the course of the speaking it was stated by Mr. Woodson that Mr. Flane was urging the adoption of the Williams wood block because he is interested in the Williams Block Paying Company; that he is being assisted fit that course by Mr. Dick Adair, the latter desiring to help his sonin-iaw, Mr. Fleid, formerly a partner of Mr. Plane, and who, it was said, is also interested in the Williams company. It was stated that Mr. E. C. Peters, councilman from the sixth ward, had encouraged the acceptance of the Williams wood block paying and that he is a brother-in-law of Mr. Will Plane, the latter a member of the Williams Block Company. All this caused a mild sensation in the committee room and it seemed certain that trouble was about to be precipitated.

Mr. Plane, with his eyes flaching fire, denied that he was being helped by Mr. Peters, his relative, or that he is actuated by any motive except to give the people of Washington street a good paving at a reasonable cost. He said the personal allusions of Mr. Woodson in his statement and the contents of his card were out of place and uncalled for, or words to that effect.

Mr. Dick Adair also had a word to say. He said if his son in-law, Mr. Field, is interested in the Williams company he knew nothing of it. He took no part in the matter for the benefit of any man or men. He only wanted a good paving.

The discussion was interesting and animated for several minutes, but it was finally smoothed over and the incident passed without an outbreak.

without an outbreak. Committee Reports Favorably.

Committee Reports Favorably.

After considering the question the street committee decided to report the Williams block ordinance favorably and if the council approves that action the street will be paved with the blocks.

It is said that there may be a further fight against the awarding of the contract to this firm. It is known that certain citizens are vigorously opposed to the wood paving and it is said that should the council pass the ordinance steps may be taken to hold up the ordinance. It is claimed by some that wood paving is unhealthy and not a proper paving. It is also claimed that the present paving on Washington street is not worn out and that the city cannot legally order a new paving at this time.

Dr. Payne appeared before the committee and opposed the paving on the ground that wood paving is unhealthy and unicentific. He said he referred to the old Nickerson paving. He was informed that the Williams company agrees to keep the block paving in repair ten years without lost to the city.

The street committee also passed up the ordinance to pave North avenue from Peachtree to West Peachtree with Williams blocks.

JULY WEATHER FOR TEN YEARS PAST

Maximum Temperatures for Each Day of July Since 1887--Some Interesting Warm Weather Figures.

July started out yesterday as if it meant to destroy a few records in the way of extreme weather. The highest point reached by the thermometer was 97, and this gives promise of some heated days to come. As a basis of calculation that coming July weather may be forecasted in advance, The Constitution presents the data on the subject for the month of July for ten years past. The daily temperature for July for ten years past is given and the speculative reader who may wish to arrive at some definite calculation as to what he may expect may sit down and draw his deductions from the figures below. The figures presented represent the maximum for ten years:

Sanders told his father and mother he was merely ill and never apprised them of his accident at that time. A physician was called in and he pronounced the trouble heart disease.

Ever since then Sanders had been growing gradually worse. It was not until a month after the accident that he told his family of what had happened. He began to sink rapidly and all that medical skill could suggest was done to save his life, but the injury seemed fatal, and although he has been able to be out most of the time, yet he realized his trouble was incurable. Three weeks ago he took his bed. Since then he hag been steadfly growing worse. Yesterday morning he showed signs of unusual weakness, and in a very short while was a corpse. He was conscious almost up to the very fast, recognizing the relatives around his bedside.

Young Gatins was a member of the Boys' High school and stood well in his studies. He was a young man of exceptional ability and promise, and would have made his mark in the world had he lived.

The pallbearers for the funeral have been chosen from his schoolmates and are as follows: H. G. Colvin, Albert T. Cox, Paul McDonald, Louis C. Gregg, John Satzky, Lewis Latham, Howard Muse, William Rushton, Lawrence O'Keefe and Clarence Haverty.

LADIES IN CAUSTIC COUNCIL

Anti-Suffragists Are Roasted Brown. Trinity and Y. M. C. A. Criticised for Refusing Use of Halls.

The Atlanta South Side Woman's Christian Temperance Union held a hot meeting

The discussion about the question of a meeting place for the union occupied the greater part of the evening. The ladies were in a bad humor on this particular subject and they took occasion to do some nice brown roasting of the people who have been criticising their suffrage tendencies.

The meeting failed to accomplish the purpose for which it was principally held, and the south side club is still homeless. The meeting was held at the home of the president, Mrs. McLendon, at 139 Washington street. There was a large attendance and a lively session. The first matter taken up was the curfew question. The committee appointed to see the police committee in regard to the proposed law reported that one of the committeemen is in favor of curfew. Mrs. McLendon will be notified to appear before the committee when the petition for curfew is taken up.

The report of the committee appointed to secure a permanent meeting place for the club developed a rather humorous situa-tion, which, however, was taken very seriously by the ladies.

The ladies had been considering the offer that had been made of the Catholic church, but their hopes of having a permanent place in that structure were dashed when the committee reported that the of-fer had been made as a joke and that it This joke didn't please the ladies a bit, and they were not very complimentary in their remarks about the jokers. It was

Mr. Monteith will soon familiarize himself with the du-ties and he will look after the books and other business of the department efficiently.

New Year at City Hall. Yesterday was New Year's day at the city hall. It was the beginning of the fiscal year with the city government and all the city officials turned over new leaves, so to speak, and began keeping their records in brand new books, and it was quite a busy day with the officials, arranging for the new year's business.

Colonel Park Woodward Sick. The many friends of Colonel Park Wood ward, superintendent of the city water works department, have missed him from his office at the city hall several days. He is confined to his home by an attack of serious illness, and he will be unable to get out for a day or two yet.

taken next week by the beautiful Miss

Belknap, of Washington, daughter of the ex-secretary of war. The whys and where-fores of this novel immersion is told in the following clipping from The New York

following clipping from The New York Journal:

"That joily little god of love who laughs at locksmiths and knows not the meaning of obstacles has just won another victory. For eighteen months he has been actively engaged in superintending a love story. The complications have been many, and Cupid has been at his wit's end more than once, but he has won at last, and before long Miss Belknap, daughter of the ex-secretary of war, will become the wife of Paul May, who a year ago was the attache of the Belgium legation in Washington. "Both families objected to this wedding. The Belknaps because of young May's religion, he being a Hebrew.

"Through influence of his mother, Paul May was sent to Japan as a member of the Belgian legation in that country. He was to remain there a year, with the hope that time and distance might make him forget the girl of his heart. That was what Mrs. May hoped for, but not what Cupid intended. Now the time of probation is over. Young May is coming back to Washington, and Miss Belknap has announced to society and the world at large that she will ronounce her religion and become a Jewess."

"To do this, much preparation is necessary."

ciety and the world at large that she will renounce her religion and become a Jewess.

"To dd this, much preparation is necessary. She must go before three rabbis, who will thoroughly explain to her the tenets of the Jewish religion. She must give up her faith in the divinity of Christ and discard the New Testament, and she must submit to the bath of purification. This bath is taken in pure water in a specified place. The bather has a garment wrapped around her and two Jewish women as assistants. There are many places in New York where the bath of purification must be taken. One is as the Zichron Ephriam Synagogue, on Sixty-seventh street. After the bath of purification one is accepted into the Jewish church.

"As there is no synagogue in Washington, Miss Belknap and Mr. May will be married in New York.

"Miss Belknap is about twenty years old, and is handsome and accomplished. She has spent much of her time abroad. In Washington, where she makes her home, she is and has always been a great society favorite. She has bad many admirers, and more than once there have been rumors of engagements.

"It was a case of love at first sight between Miss Belknap and Mr. May, and they would have been married long ago but for the opposition of the parents.

"Young May is popular with all who know him, and is especially well liked in diplomatic circles."

comedy work, and was pronounced by those who witnessed the first performance to surpass anything that has yet been given by local talent, and it was only by the many urgent requests that the partici-pants decided to repeat the entertainment the proceeds of which iwll be donated to

BUILDING A LINK

Southern Is Fixing To Be Independent in North Carolina.

WILL SOON HAVE A NEW LINE If the Lease Is Broken Through Ser

vice Will Continue. ROBERT GARRETT MISSED A CHANCE

The Baltimore and Ohio Had an Opportunity To Come Down to Atlanta, but Let It Slip.

Within the next ninety days the South ern railway will be in a position to get along without the North Carolina railroad if the courts decide to break the lease. however, the breaking of the lease does not seem to be a very probable result of the litigation. But there is no telling what will happen when a case gets into the piepare for the worst.

The work of paralleling the state road of North Carolina is now under way, and it is a matter of only a few weeks before the Southern will be able to run from Washington to Atlanta without touching the North Carolina railroad at all.

For years there have been two points which only needed to be joined together by about twenty-five miles of new road to complete the parallel. The North Carolina railroad extends from Charlotte to Greensboro and thence in an easterly direction oro and thence in an easterly direction to Goldsboro. Altogether the line is about 200 miles long. It is all leased to the Southern, and the latter uses the part between Greensboro and Charlotte as a main line between Washington and Atlanta. If the lease were broken and some other road were to get control of it, the Southern would be embarrassed unless it had ern would be embarrassed unless it had another way of getting around from Greens bero to Charlotte, a distance of about one hundred miles. This the Southern will soon

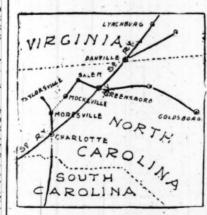

Several years ago the old Virginia Midland had a scheme to build from Greens boro to Charlotte and to either lease th Atlanta and Charlotte or build on to Atlanta. A road was started under a charter obtained for the purpose and was built from Greensboro in a westerly direction to Winston. Another line was built from Charlotte in a northerly direction and the plan was to connect them. Back of the whole movement was the Baltimore and Ohlo, which then controlled the stock in the Virginia Midland. Mr. Samuel Sper cer, who had been with the Virginia Mid-land at an earlier date, was then a vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio. He and Judge Cowen, then general counsel of the Baltimore and Ohio and now one of its receivers, went over the whole country on horseback between Greensboro and Charlotte. They examined the proposed route and were strongly in favor of paral-leling the North Carolina road and reach-ing on down to Atlanta, Mr. Spencer realized that it would be a magnificent terri-tory for the Baltimore and Ohlo to oc-

The business men of Baltimore were anxious for the Baltimore and Ohio to make the move, because they foresaw that it would give their city a strong hold on business of the south.

Congressman Barbour, of Virginia, was president of the Virginia Midland, and Major Peyton Randolph was general manager. They were anxious for their comager. They were anxious for their com-pany and the Baltimore and Ohio to co-operate and extend to Atlanta. An under-standing was even reached with the At-lanta and Charlotte by which the Virginia Midland was to lease it or at least have every facility for operating over it. The old Richmond and Danville had the North Carolina road leased, hence it was necessary to parallel that the processor.

necessary to parallel that line to reach Charlotte. Everything was progressing swimmingly until the time came to close up and perfect the deal. Mr. John W. Garrett, the president of the Baltimore and Ohio, was in Europe and his son "Bob" was in charge. That young man had the peculiar faculty of making egregious blunders at critical times. He had just a little while before permitted the Pennsylvania railroad to beat him out of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore, a most desirable property. He now set himself against the proposition of extending his great system into the south More than that, he attempted to put a personal friend into the Virginia Midland over Major Randolph.

President Barbour declined to permit this to be done. So the matter was left until John W. Garrett returned from Europe. He returned in midsummer and Europe. He returned in missummer and the matter of the appointment of a new general manager on the Virginia Midland was taken up. He said that his son was wrong in the position he had taken, but he felt that he ought to sustain Robert. President Barbour asked him what he would take for the Baltimore and Ohlo's stock and his constants. stock and his own stock in the Virginia Midland. Mr. Garrett said 100 cents on the dollar. The stock was then selling on the market for 10 cents on the dollar. Mr. Barbour obtained sixty days option on the Barbour obtained sixty days option on the stock and at once opened negotiations with the Richmond and Danville people at Richmond for the lease of the Virginia Midland. They jumped at the opportunity and on the day the option expired the Baltimore and Ohio stock and the Garrett stock was bought. That let the Baltimore and Ohio out of its chance to come south and made the Richmond and Danville a formidable system.

paired. True, the road is a good local line but it would cease to become a part of the through route if the Southern were to give it up.

The line around by Winston and Mooresville would be twenty miles longer than the direct line from Charlotte to Greensboro, but that would amount to only about half an hour's difference in time between Atlanta and Washington.

It is not at all probable that the Southern will have to give up the lease of the state road which it now holds, but if it should have to do so, it will be prepared for the emergency.

By Capitalists.

They Want the Road.

Editor Constitution—Considerable interest is being taken here toward securing the Atlanta and Selma railroad by our city. At several conferences among wealthy and influential citizens it has been agreed to offer that corporation a large tract of very valuable suburban property, comprising some fine water nower as well prising some fine water power, as well as a plat of 1,040 city lots, near the south-ern boundary of the city limits and through which the survey of the Atlanta and Selma which the survey of the Atlanta and Selma road has already been made.

With the Atlanta and Selma completed through our place, which has now 2,500 population, it would only be a matter of a short while until our population would be 5,000 to 6,000 and the trade would be immense from this point into and out of Atlanta, both passenger and freight traffic ever the Atlanta and Selma road. This would be very advantageous to Atlanta merchants as well as to the road, which would be the only direct line we would have into Atlanta.

In ten years from the completion of the road to our city we calculate that the receipts from this point alone, by the corporation who builds it, will be sufficient from passenger and freight traffic to pay back every dollar of the cost of the road from Atlanta to Carrollton. Besides this plot of 1,040 fine lots should easily sell for more than $200,000 and in addition to same the water power on this property would be worth for factory purposes no less than $50,000, which will make Carrollton's subscription to the capital stock of the Atlanta and Selma railroad and Seabaged Air-Line fully tion to the capital stock of the Atlanta and Selma railroad and Seaboard Air-Line fully $250,000.

Now Carrollton has two charters for rall-roads to Atlanta and direct connection by rail with Atlanta has received much attention by our people, and we have no doubt that either one or both of these charters with all of their privileges can easily be had by the Atlanta and Selma people, if they should so desire.

Mr. Spencer Off for Europe. President Samuel Spencer, of the Southern railway, sailed this week for Europe, ern railway, sailed this week for Europe, and he will be gone for two months. It is not likely that the Macon case now on file in the United States court will be pushed until he returns. President Spencer is the most material witness on the Southern's side.

Judge Spencer has not set the case, but he has stated that he would not railroad it to a hearing. So it will probably go over until some time in the fall.

May Be the Canadian Pacific. Nothing was developed yesterday in the report that Vice President E. St. John, of report that vice President E. St. John, of the Seaboard, contemplated resigning. It seems that the story got out two weeks ago or more that the Canadian Pactife had offered him a much larger salary than he is receiving. Just what the position is that was offered no one here knows. After Mr. St. John returns tomorrow the report will be confirmed or authoritatively de-nied.

Columbus, Ga., July 1.-(Special.)-Colum bus is rejoicing tonight over the consum mation of one of the biggest busines schemes planned here in years.

The magnificent water power here caused by the fall of the Chattahoochee river is to be developed on an elaborate scale by a powerful company just formed, consisting of G. After much bargaining the gentlemen in terested secured possession of the land and necessary rights and will proceed with the development of their scheme immediate ly. The last step was taken this afternoon when the last land necessary to be se cured was purchased from the North High lands Company. Messrs. Jordan, Hill and Hanson will apply for a charter tomorrow and will at once erect a fine plant at the old paper mill site.

A big stone dam will be built across the river and $100,000 will be spent in the en-terprise, and the principle of the transmission of electrical power will be put to a practical use, power being transmitted to all desiring it.

Paine, Murphy & Co.'s Cotton Letter. Atlanta, July 1.—Liverpool cables today reported spot sales of 14,000 bales; midding uplands 45-32d. Futures closed steady at about 1-64d nigher than yesterday's close. The New York market opened steady, unchanged to 2 points above yesterday. Strong efforts were made to depress prices by professional bears during the first hour of the session, but their offerings were quickly absorbed and later on they were covering their short sales at higher prices than they secured. The market continued advancing. New Orleans bought freely and shorts were apxious buyers toward the close, all of which gave the market a strong tone, the final close showing a gain for the day of 10 to 14 points over yesterday. largely a weather market at present, unless rains fall generally throughout belt within the next ten days the den for cotten will doubtless increase terday. It i for cotten will doubtless increase and prices ought to improve. There was considerable liquidation of August during the forenoon, but these sales have to a very large extent been replaced by purchases of the new crop months. The present situation is certainly a very strong one. Prices have for a long time been sustained by the question of supply and demand and not torough speculative buying. Therefore prices appear to be on a very stable basis, and at least until the time when it shall be demonstrated that the outturn this seainstrated that the outturn this se son may possibly largely exceed consump-tive requirements the chances appear greatly in favor of a substantial apprecia-tion in values. Southern Exchange Cotton Letter. Atlanta, July 1.—Cotton ruled firm and higher today with a moderate business doing. The run of news her been of a second higher today with a moderate business doing. The run of news has been of a favorable character, and prices sympathized accordingly. Spinners continued active buyers of spots in Liverpool with total sales of 14,000 bales. There is a general disposition among correspondents to complain of ers of spots in Liverpool with total sales of 14,000 bales. There is a general disposition among correspondents to complain of want of rain, and this fact gives rise to fears that, should any drought be prolonged, a rise in the market would easily take place. The talk is that a general revival of trade is near at hand, and many are of the opinion that, should this take place it would be a matter of second consideration just what the crop might be, unless it should prove a monster. As the reports are now of a mixed character, it might be well to be a little cautious on either side, as any reports of a decided nature either way would pronouncedly influence prices. The gain on the day has been considerable, with a firmer feeling existing in the late options than was shown in the nearby positions. In the late trading the market turned strong with the buying general on the fear that, should no rain fall between now and the expiration of the holidays, a further advance would take place. The gain at one time was 10 to 18 points, closing at about the best.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter. New York, July 1.-Manchester shows a New York, July 1.—Manchester shows a decidedly better tone, as is shown by the increased sales in Liverpool, and the arrival market was supported by buying orders from continental sources. Locally the foreign advices were considered better than looked for, and as the weather map showed no rains throughout the cotton belt, with continued high temperatures, prices have slowly advanced. Liverpool was a seller of January on arbitrage transactions checking the advance temporarily, but the seller of January on arbitrage transactions checking the advance temporarily, but the situation at the moment is simply that with the memory of last season still present, there will be no sellers of the new crop unless rains become general throughout the cotton belt. In other words, a general rain is necessary to prevent an advance. Europe this season has neither been able or willing to secure fall shipments, and should any accident happen to the crop, it will be difficult to find sellers. Local covering, together with some buying for southern account, closed the market firm at the best prices. On the basis of last quotations, Liverpool should be 3-64d higher tomorrow unless rainy weather appears in the south.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, July 1:—(Special.)—The cotton market was broad today and strongly bullish. Continuance of dry weather increased the alarm caused by fear of drought. Elverpool reported large spot sales this morning, but prices there were unchanged. Our opening was quiet and but slightly higher. The prevailing bullish feeling was still strong, but during the morning constant and heavy selling for Liverpool kept prices down. No important rains were had in the south, however, and the nervous shorts absorbed all offerings eagerly. In the afternoon the bulls became aggressive, New Orleans sent heavy buying orders here, the leading bear, was covering and prices short smartly upward. Indisposition to be short over the holidays of Saturday and Monday contributed somewhat to the volume of short covering. August opened at 7.33, advanced to 7.35, declined to 7.33, advanced agafin to 7.43 and closed aft that figure with the tone of the market firm. Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter. figure with the tone of the market firm. Although the most reliable information is that the dry weather has as yet done no real harm, the market is extremely sensitive to bad crop news, and its immediate future will most probably depend upon the rainfall in the south.

The Dry Goods Market. The Dry Goods Market.

New York, July 1.—With the approach of the Independence Day holiday the dry goods market assumes a duller tone than has been the case hitherto. The buying in the market is of a casual character, and mill orders have been light in nearly all grades. The month just closed is pronounced to have been a fair one both in first hand and jobbing markets. Sales were really heavier than was expected and the total for the month, it is believed, in most quarters will compare favorably with the business of June. 1896. In staple cottons the market is still unsatisfactory. Bleeched goods are still sold slowly at steady prices. Brown cottons are in slow request with export goods only fairly active. Wide sheetings show no change. Coarse colored cottons are steady without change. Denims are fairly active, and business in stripes, checks, cheviots, tickings, etc., is still quiet, though prices are fairly well sustained. Prints are without feature, the demand for staples being somewhat limited. Print cloths quoted at 2½c.

New York, June 1.—By Associated Press: The cotton market opened steady and un-changed to 2 points higher. Following the call there was an advance of 4@5 points on short buying, and an increased demand for investment account. The basis of the for investment account. The basis of the improvement was a growing conviction that threatening activity in business circles at large was likely to follow the holiday and supplement the exceptional strength of cotton statistics. The market later eased off partially on realizing, but strengthened again on favorable accounts from Fall River and improving reports from the dry goods district. Shorts were fairly active buyers in the afternoon. The close was firm at a net advance of 10012 points. firm at a net advance of 10@12 points.

NURSING REACTION

Heavy Operators Do Not Want Stocks To Advance Too Rapidly.

THEY WORK FOR DECLINES

It Is for the Purpose, They Say, of Recuperating the Market-Profits Also Tempting.

New York, July 1.-Today's market was somewhat erratic, the earlier hours of the day inclining to reaction, but a stronger tone developed in the afternoon which carried prices all through the list above last night's closing. There was no news garding the general situation to account for the early decline, and it must be at-tributed to a general apprehension among the professional traders that the advance in prices has outstripped conditions. The strength did not develop until after a period of feverish uncertainty and a hesitating and somewhat timorous effort on the part of the bears to take control of the market. There was a decided falling off in activity, and in the outside interest in the market all day. Neither was there any general heavy selling to realize appaent. The decline gave every appearance of being purely manipulative in character, the bulls seeming to assent to it as promsing a benefit to the tone of the market. It was not of a character to invite aggresshorts; in fact the sales that made for the short account were covered before the end of the session, this being argely responsible for the rally. feature of the market was the easiness with which prices moved both up and down on small transactions. The late rise was accomplished without any very heavy buying, reflecting the disposition of heavy operators to nurse the reaction for the purpose of recuperating the market and preventing its too rapid advance. London already reflected an increased confi-dence in the stability of values here and bought quite freely during the day. The general news of the outlook for busines ooked favorable. The transfer of $200,000 in currency from the subtreasury to New Orleans is considered an indication of in-creasing activity in that secton. An order from Europe for $500,000 in gold went begging in Wall street, there being no ade-quate proof in the final transaction at the ruling rate of exchange. Louisville and Nashville's good showing for May of an increase of $82,021 in gross earnings and of $64,245 in net helped the market maintain its strength. This was true of the internationals as a group with one or two exceptions.

total sales of stocks today were 276,443 shares, including American Tobacco 7,800, American Sugar 34,700, Burlington and Quincy 27,000, Chicago Gas 30,700, Manhattan 15,000, Readng 7,300, Rock Island 10,000, St. Paul 43,800 The bond market displayed a good tone on moderate transactions which were largely restricted to the leading mortgages. BONDS.

New York, July 1.—The Evening Post's London financial cablegram says: The stock markets were quiet and irregular today. Home rails were chiefly in favor. In the other, markets the feature was the sharp rise in Grand Trunk on good buying and an excellent working statement. Canadian Pacifics also were largely, bought. The settlement will be finished tomorrow. Americans were neglected pending more definite indications of the New York market. Prices were mostly above the parity all day and despite the drop in New York all day and despite the drop in New York and the pessimistic cables of The Pall Mall Gazette's American correspondent initing at war between the United States and Japan and Spain, the disposition here is to hold on to Americans in the belief that the decline is pust.

Kaffirs were better and with an upward endency. The Post's Financial Cable. endency. Details of the gold movement for the week show that £82,000 came from Australia and £17,000 from the Cape, while £15,000 went to the continent.

The Berlin market was steady and the Farls bourse was firm after a period of duliness.

Paine, Murphy & Co.'s Stock Market. Atlanta, July 1.—The stock market open-ed irregular, but with some encouragement in the higher level of prices in London. The trading element, which has been working on the theory of reaction for the last two days, continued its efforts to provoke a decline and was partly successful, Aided to some extent by realizations by small traders and the execution of stop orders, the recession reached moderate limits, and in the case of Sugar. Chicago Gas, American Tobacco and some of the Grangers Bay State Gas was independently weak on rumors of a receiver being appointed.

In the afternoon an attempt to cover shorts led to higher prices and there were few instances where final prices were not considerably higher than last night.

Manhattan was very strong, gaining over 2 per cent on reports of greatly improved visions 5@121/2c higher. Except that this was the first delivery day for July contracts wheat opened under-a similar combination of bearish influences to those of the previous day. The July deliveries made previous to the opening of the session were quite insignificant, a care-ful estimate making the quantity of wheat only 30,000 bushels. That for a while preonly 30,000 bushels. That for a while pre-vented the price from yielding to the other and quite bearish influences. The latter, however, could not be for long endured and began to exercise their legitimate in-fluence about thirty minutes after the opening. July, which closed yesterday at k %c, opened today at from 68% to 69%c and half an hour afterwards was bought at 68%. September started a shade lower at 64%, sold at 64% and then down to 64%c. Liverpool opened %d lower and reported stocks of wheat 312,000 bushels larger than June 1st. The latter item of statistical information was rather a surprise considering the weekly statements of the great deficiency of imports compared with the estimated requirements. Chicago re-ceived 10 carloads of wheat. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 330 carloads, compared with 408 cars the corresponding day of the year before The Atlantic export clearances were liberal at equal to 330,000 bushes in wheat and flour

The feeling became firmer on cable advices that the Danublan crop is injured at least 40 per cent. An advance of about \(\frac{3}{4} \) case that the Eanublan crop is injured at least 40 per cent. An advance of about \(\frac{3}{4} \) case at St. Louis and a reported better demand at the seaboard for export, New York reporting 27 loads. Paris was quoted unchanged while Liverpool closed \(\frac{3}{4} \) dower. There is undoubtedly quite a short interest in the market at the present time on fine weather and bearish crop reports, and this interest may buy freely before the close tomorrow, especially if the buying for report should continue or cables report firmer markets abroad, which we think quite probable.

Corn closes steady slightly above yesterday. The trade was largely local.

Sample oats were weak, which had a depressing influence on futures early in the session, but final figures were rather firm.

The feature in provisions was the buying of lard early by a large packer. Deliveries were fair, and the trade looked for a lower range in prices, which caused some liquidation, but the whole list soon became firm, pork advancing 17½c per barrel and lard and ribs 12c per 100 pounds. The continued good domestic and foreign demand indicates a tendency to higher prices.

Business in the wheat pit was not heavy to begin with and soon simmered down to a midsummer drowsi-ness among the moderate number who braved the steamy heat of the pit for the off-chance of picking up 1-16c on 5,000 bushels or 10,000 bushels. The tone of the market improved, however, notwithstanding the smallness of the trade. The improve ment became more marked when New York reported the Danisbubian crop to be 40 per cent under the average. Good seaboard acceptances of last night's cabled offers were also reported. The light trading was almost entirely confined to September, the weakness of July being due principally to neglect. It Improved, however, later in the session, and at the close was bringing

TAX BOOKS CLOSED

Yesterday Was the Last Day for Paying City Taxes.

ABOUT $12,000 COLLECTED

The Total Collections for the Second Installment Amounts to About $98,000.

The city tax books closed at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the second in-stallent paying period has passed. The collections amounted to a little less than was expected by the officials when the books were opened on June 1st.

The collections yesterday ran up to a little more than $12,000. Quite a number of checks have been sent to the collectors for taxes which have not been counted which will run the collections up a considerable sum.

The total collections for the second in-

The total collections for the second installment period will amount to about $98,-600. The officials expected to get in about $100,000. This amount will be sufficient to run the city government through the summer months and it will not be necessary for the city to borrow money to pay running expenses this year.

With the close of the second installment period about $310,000 has been collected of the year's taxes. This leaves something more than $300,000 yet to be collected. This amount will be due on the third and last installment period, which begins September 1st and runs until October 15th.

All defaulters of the first and second installment will be required to pay 7 per cent interest on their taxes.

Yesterday was quite a busy day with the tax assessors and collectors and the city clerks.

HIS BOND OF $100 FORFEITED YESTERDAY IN CITY COURT.

He Was Wanted for Flimflamming Grocer Kilpatrick, but He Was Not in Court To Answer.

The name of Harry Raygond was called three times yesterday in the city criminal court, but there was no answer made and the young boy's bond of $100 was forfeited by order of Judge Berry. The officers have been asked to locate Raymond and when he is found he will be sent to jail to await his trial before Judge Berry.

Raymond was wanted yesterday for flim-flamming, a game he is said to have often practiced in the city among different rierchants. The prosecutor in the case is Grocer Kilpatrick, who conducts a store at the intersection of Ellis and Houston Harry went into his store to get a $10 till exchanged for ten silver dollars. Harry is said to have given the grocer the ten silver dollars and accepted the bill, but changing his mind, asked for the silver back, leaving an envelope in which the grocer thought the bill had been placed. ALL DELINQUENTS TO BE DOUBLE TAXED

Last Year's Returns Were $50,900,-000, and but Only About $49,-500,000 Has Been Received.

The returns for state and county taxes for 1897 are shy more than $1,000,000 as compared with the returns made for the same period last year.

Just 1,487 returns were short yesterday morning when Tax Receiver Armistead opened his office for the day and but little change had been made in the figures last might when the office was closed. These 1,487 returns represent an amount more than $1,000,000 and should no more returns be made this year the county would be short just that amount over last year. just that amount over last year.

The total amount of taxable property given in for state and county taxes last year footed up the vast sum of $50,000,000. This included everything, both real and personal property. This year the total has not quite passed the $50,000,000 mark and the time for closing the books was passed yesterday. On account of the large amount of the shortage Tax Receiver Armistead will keep the books open until Saturday night of this week, when the books will be closed and all defaulters will be double taxed.

cants and Mr. Johnson will have to discriminate between them to choose his ten men. One thing is certain, they will all be dyed-in-the-wool republicans, and no democrat may hope to find favor in the eyes of the new marshal.

All of Mr. Dunlap's deputies are out of office and only two or three of the new deputies have been commissioned, so there is no field work being done now and the moonshiner is plying his trade unmolested. In a few days, however, Mr. Johnson will have a full force of men in the field.

Mr. Johnson's course in indiscriminately firing the old force of deputies Immediately upon going into office has caused some surprise and some comment. It was expected that he would put off the majority of the democrats, but it was not thought that he would shove them out so soon. When Mr. Dunlap took charge of the office four years ago he kept a large number of republicans and would have retained more, but the new law was passed, which necessitated cutting down his force about two-thirds. Mr. Dunlap kept some of the old republican office deputies for a long time, and did not shock the nerves of the republican deputies by such a sudden shakeup.

This time it is entirely different. Not one of the old office deputies will be kept by Mr. Johnson.

The activation was all taxaed.

"I can explain the vast shortage only in one way," said Tax Receiver Armistead yesterday morning. "You know the city taxes and this practice has caused some confusion in my office, as persons which are in the habit of paying city and state and county taxes at the same time have and their day active has caused some confusion in my office, as persons which are in the habit of paying city and state and county taxes at the same time have and county taxes at the same time have in the habit of paying city and state and county taxes at the same time and the city as a furtile was a quarterly payment of city taxes. This is impossible, as books conflict with my days There have been a large number of paying city and state and county taxes at the sam

It is said that the amount of property returned this year for taxation will not reach the amount of last year by half a million dollars, as the property owners do not believe their property is worth as much ag it was last year and consequently have not returned it as high as it was returned last year. The amount that has been returned will be given out officially Saturday night by the tax receiver.

WILL DECIDE NEXT WEEK.

The State Fair Seems Assured, but Reports Have Not Yet Been Received. Members of the fair committee of the tate Agricultural Society met yesterday ad discussed the report made by the At-nta committee. In the committee.

It is almost assured that the fair will be held, but reports from the railroads have not yet been received, and for this reason it was decided to postpone final reason it was decided to postpone final action until next week.

Long discussion was held with the representatives of the Consolidated Street railway which wished to put up $500 with a conditional agreement. This, however, was not accepted by the fair committee, and the full subscription of $500 was afterwads made. After the adjournment of the committee the Consolidated Street railway agreed to remove the conditions it had imposed upon its subscription. Late in the afternoon members of the committee went out to view the grounds and were shown just how the fair could be held, but no final decision was reached, and not until reports come from several important sources will it be known whether the fair will be held.

The presents were lovely. Of course they came from Delkin's Diamond Palace 10 Peachtree street. june29-lm

J. J. Booker After a Man for Selling Him Worthless Physic-Will Swear Out a Warrant.

Yesterday afternoon J. J. Booker, a white man, who resides at 819 Peachtree street, called to see the chief of police and he had with him a bottle of queer looking medicine, about which hung a story and which was the cause of the visit to the Booker said his wife was very sick and she was being treated by a physician. A day or two ago a man, who gave his name as Favor, called at his house and said he had some medicine which would be sure to cure Mrs. Booker.

Favor produced a large bottle of medl-cine, which he was willing to sell at a cut price of 95 cents. He made so many extravagant claims for his physic that Booker decided to buy a bottle. Mrs. Booker did not like to try the med-icine until she knew more about it, and Icine until she knew more about it, and Mr. Booker took it to a physician and had it examined. He was told that the alleged medicine was nothing but some water and a little Jamaica ginger and sirup. Booker thought he had been swindled end he wanted his money back, and at the same time a little revenge for being imposed upon. Chief Connolly took the bottle of medicine and applied it to his smelling organs. gans. "It smells all right," was the chief's "But it isn't all right," said Booker, Sergeant Abbott was summoned and he was told to look into the case. The sergeant ascertained that the sale of the medicine had taken place outside the city limits and he had no jurisdiction in the case. "You will have to swear out a warrant," remarked the sergeant.

Booker went off saying he would take out the warrant before the justice in the Peachtree district.

"I have been greatly imposed upon," he said to a reporter of The Constitution, "and I will get my money back or land that fellow in jall."

When Your System is DraggedDown

The most terrible and devitalizing disease of the present day is nervous debility, brought about by indiscretions, overindulgence, and secret violations of the laws of health. Its origin dates back to pre-historic times, and has increased to such an alarming degree as to become one of the greatest destructors of the human body. Men of every class, of every creed, of every walk in life, are conscious of the visible effects in their own lives, from indiscretions of their youth, which have followed them through all the succeeding years. They feel at times, when business trials and worry cequire their close application and strict attention to bridge over some impending catastrophe, that they lack the force and vigor and strength of mind cation and strict attention to bridge over some impending catastrophe, that they lack the force and vigor and strength of mind and body to battle with the world, and are thus compelled to lag behind, while the stronger one wins success.

Most every person, young, middle-aged and old, has experienced the feeling of their own body being undermined by drains upon their system, weakening the organs, and preventing their proper function.

Nervous debility is characterized by a shrinking from the society of others, failing memory, sleeplessness, melancholy, irritableness, and a disposition to look upon the gloomy side of life. There is a lack of ambition and difficulty to keep the mind fixed on one thing.

Dr. Hathaway & Co. have made a lifelong study of this disease. Under their treatment the sufferer is strengthened at once. The body becomes erect, the step firm and the spirits buoyant. Every weakening drain upon the system is checked and the patient's weight increases.

Nothing like Dr. Hathaway & Co.'s system has ever been known for the cure of nervous diseases.

If you are conscious that your body is dally being dragged down by the results of past indiscretions, you can at your own pleasure find at once the essential relief and cure.

If you live out of the city, no matter of past indicate of the city, no matter and cure.

If you live out of the city, no matter where, Dr. Hathaway & Co. have provided a most complete department of letter correspondence. You can write to them, describing your aliment, and they will give you their advice absolutely free, telling you the best course to follow to become well and strong. SPECIALTIES,

WILL MAKE APPEAL TWO SCHOOL BOARDS GOLD MEDAL BRAND

to the Supreme Court.

LUMPKIN'S DECISION NOT FINAL

Captain Ellis Gives an Interesting History of the Case and States Why It Will Be Appealed.

The decision of Judge Lumpkin in the Horne estate litigation against Captain English, as administrator, finding that he was liable for $24,696.40, will be carried to the supreme court and the defense anncunces that the fight is by no means firshed and the decision is not final if the supreme court will intervene. The case will be carried to the supreme court at once and it will be in that body that the fight will be made for the final decision. Captain Ellis stated yesterday that the matter would not rest by any means in its present condition, but that the fight would be continued, as he was not satisfied with the decision, neither are his colleagues in the case with him. Captain English, as administrator of the estate of the late C. D. Horne, is represented by Ellis & Gray, Rosser and Carter and J. L. Hopkins & Sons, and the plaintiffs were represented by Dorsey, Brewster & Howell and Arthur Heyman. "I can't understand why such prominence is being given Captain English in the two is being given Captain English in the two lawsuits which are pending against him," said Captain Ellis yesterday. "In one case he bought a lot on Bread street and one on Alabama street about fifteen years ago, at what, at the time of the purchase, was considered full price. The title to the property was examined for him by an attorney who is now a distinguished judge. Judge John L. Hopkins & Sons are associated with us in this case and we confidently expect to defeat a recovery of this property or any part of it.

"In the Horne case Captain English attempted to save a manufacturing company from ruin because the heirs of his estate had a large interest in it. On account of the panic his efforts were unavailing and what was considered good business Judgment is now sought to be turned into a personal liability. He sold some stock in the bridge and axle works for part cash and part credit. The stock, by his own individual efforts, realized $6,000 in money and the remainder in notes, amounting to $9,000 and all the stock was retained, as security.

"The court has held that he was liable—

$9,000 and all the stock was retained as security.

"The court has held that he was liable for the $9,000 because the security he took was worthless. In other words, he got $6,000 for the estate for a thing that was worthless and he is held liable for $9,000 more because of it. The able judge who so held according to his tonvictions. The supreme court will be asked to finally pass upon the question.

"Captain English has used every effort to save money for the Horne heirs which a good business man could make and he and the heirs differ as to what the law is on the question."

TEACHERS FROM CONVENTION. The Atlanta Delegation Back from Trip to Warm Springs.

The Atlanta teachers returned yesterday from the teachers' convention at Warm Springs. They all came back enthusiastic over the success of the convention and the Celightful time they had at the springs. Major Slaton, in speaking of the convention yesterday, was enthusiastic about the meeting. "It was the best convention we have ever had." he said. "There were representatives from every county in the state, or about three hundred teachers. There were a great many questions to come representatives from every county in the state, or about three hundred teachers. There were a great many questions to come up this year that the teachers were greatly interested in and they all came prepared to take part and the consequence was that we had a very success ful convention. There were about thirty teachers there from Atlanta and we had a delightful time.

"The sessions of the convention were well attended and much useful work was done. As soon as the meetings were over everybody would make a bee line for the baths and then the fun would begin. The baths are the firest in the country and we all enjoyed them greatly.

"It is probable that we will meet next year at our place on Cumberland island. This, however, is in the hands of the executive committee and if they do not make the right kind of arrangements with the railroads we may go back to Warm Springs. It is better located for the teachers to get to and it is a delightful place."

Horne-English Litigation Will Be Carried | Jonesboro Has One To Spare, but Which Is the One?

JUDGE CANDLER HAD A HAND

But He Acted Innocently on the Request of Two Citizens Who Got in Ahead of Public Meeting.

The thriving city of Jonesboro, the county seat of Clayton, is stirred up just at present over a political sensation which bids fair to disrupt its public school sys-

The trouble grew out of an appointment made by Judge John S. Candler. are at present two boards of education, one selected by the people and the other ap-pointed by Judge Candler. The question is which will remain in office. In 1891 a board of education for Jonesboro was created by the legislature, and in the act it was provided that the members should be appointed by the superior court judge of the circuit. While it was by no means necessary, it has been the custom for the citizens of Jonesboro to nominate the members of the board and send the names to the judge for ratification.

It was discovered some weeks ago that the terms of the members of the board of education then in office expired on January 1. 1897. As soon as this was discovered a mass meeting of the citizens of Jones-boro was called for June 14th, but when the hour for the meeting arrived, so few peo-ple had come that the meeting was de-clared postponed until June 29th, which was last Tuesday.

On Monday, however, Messrs. J. O. High-tower and E. M. Blalock went Judge Candler, and, according to report, represented themselves as a com from the people of Jonesboro and had the following gentlemen appointed as memrollowing gentlemen appointed as members of the new board: J. O. Hightower, E. M. Blalock, J. A. Morrow, C. H. Hutchinson, A. C. Blalock, W. T. Kimsey, W. R. Ward, I. W. Cousins and W. B. Stew-

With the commissions of the new board in their pockets, Mr. Hightower and Mr. Blalock returned to Jonesboro, and, saying nothing about the appointment which they had asked for, attended the meeting of the nothing about the appointment which they had asked for, attended the meeting of the citizens Tuesday night and participated in the nominations made by the people for the board. These nominations are as follows: Messrs. T. C. Cannon, W. H. H. Morrow, A. B. Rivers, A. C. Bialock, W. M. Wright, C. H. Hutchinson, A. A. Camp, Z. T. Manson and W. Z. Mann. Yesterday morning it was announced by the two gentlemen who secured the appointment that the board had already been named by Judge Candler, and all yesterday it was the talk of the town. Judge Candler will be asked to rescind his appointments of last Monday and ratify the nominations made by the people.

No objection is made to the men who were named by Judge Candler, nor is it believed that he intended to ignore the popular choice in the matter, but some of the people say that he has been imposed upon and they object to the manner in which the appointments were made and the loudest protests are coming from the board which was appointed by Judge Candler with the exception of two or three. The election of the teachers takes place on the first Tuesday in July and the citizens are very anxious to have the matter, settled before that time. One of the duties of the board of education is to make an assessment for the mailtenance of the schools during the year, and in the duties of the board of education is to make an assessment for the maintenance of the schools during the year, and in case the will of the people is not complied with there may be trouble on this line.

Several have already amounced their intention of enjeining the city from collecting the taxes, in case the assessment is made by the board which was appointed by Judge Candler last Monday. A mass meeting will be held within the course of the next few days and it is possible that resolutions condemning the action taken by Messrs. Hightower and Blalock in representing themselves as a committee from the people of Jonesboro, will be introduced.

The races next Monday night will be the best yet held and Frince is now arrai ging a fine programme.

The event of the next meet, however, will be the match race between Kline and Elliott. This match race is the talk of the town and will in all probability be the best race ever seen on the track.

Another great feature will be a match tandem race. As yet there has never been a tandm race in Atlanta and to see two fine teams matched against each other will be great sport.

AWARDED - CONTRACT

The Corona Coal Co. Will Supply all the City Departments With Corona Coal During the Fiscal Year.

THE LARGEST CONTRACT EVER AWARDED.

To One Firm for Furnishing the City with Coal and Probably the Largest in the South-The Corona Coal Is a Good Article and Deserves the Success It Has Attained.

At a meeting of the finance committee of the city of Atlanta this morning bids were opened for the furnishing of coal to the city's different departments for the next fiscal year, which begins today, and the contract was awarded to the Corona Coal Company, through its genial and hustling managers, Messrs T. P. Stovall, Jr., and C. H. Stanton. This is the largest contract ever awarded by the city of Atlanta for coal to one firm, and it only goes to show that they know and appreciate a good thing in Corona coal. Heretofore the bids have called for the furnishing of coal for each department of the city government separately, but this year it was decided to award the contract to cover all the departments, which includes the twenty-three public schools of Atlanfa; the entire fire department, consisting of nine companies; the Grady hospital, chamber of commerce, station house, Grant park.

The Corona Coal Company certainly has just cause to feel elated at their success, especially in view of the fact that the Corona coal was selected in preference to several other well known brands now on the market. The present management of the Corona Coal Company have only assumed charge about a year and have maderapid strides in pushing their coal to the front. They knew they had a good thing, and they "pushed it along," to success, as the contract awarded them today will show. The Corona Coal Company has built for itself through the efficient management of what pluck and energy can do, when they are backed by a good article for sale.

The Corona coal is a superior article, having received a gold medal at the New Orleans and Atlanta expositions, and it is safe to say that the "Gold Medal Brand" will be more than ever in demand. The Corona Coal Company is to be congratulated on having such successful men as Messrs, Stovall and Stanton are to be congratulated that they have the management of such a solid enterprise as the Corona Coal Company.
